Parts of Colorado and New Mexico Devastated by Storm--- Railways Suspend Traffic

DURANGO, Colo., Oct. 7.—Southwestern Colorado and northern New Mexico are devastated as a result of the heaviest storms and most severe floods this section has experienced since 1884. Miles of railroad track, many scattered houses and at least two towns have been washed away, mines have been flooded and temporarily abandoned and it is reported that several lives have been lost. Details are meager, owing to the crippled condition of telephone and telegraph service.

Reports from Arboles, a town of 300 inhabitants, thirty-five miles east of here, are that practically the entire town has been destroyed and several people are reported missing.

From Farmington, N. M., comes the report that a nearby village of Navajo Indians has been swept away and that the natives are destitute and exposed to the storm.

Bayfield and Ignacio are inundated and all residents have fled to the hills. The river is still rising.

The Mancos river has overflowed and the town of Mancos is under water.

Silverton reports two feet of water in its streets and Dolores is under three feet of water, which is rising rapidly.

Railroad traffic is suspended and officials state that it cannot be resumed for days after the water subsides.

At Alamosa, hundreds of volunteers are working tonight, just above the city, throwing up a temporary dam along the banks of the Rio Grande to keep that river from breaking out of bounds and flooding the city.

SQUIRREL OWNERS TO BE PROSECUTED

State Board of Health to Take Drastic Action to Exterminate Pests.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 7.—Prosecutions of property owners who do not properly protect the public from bubonic plague by the slaughter of ground squirrels were ordered today by the state board of health, following a conference with Dr. Robert Blue of the United States service.

The manner of instituting the prosecutions will be decided by Dr. W. P. Shaw, secretary, and State Senator L. H. Bockberger, attorney for the board.

In a number of instances, the state has issued notices to property owners who have failed to comply with the clean up orders. These will be given no further warning aside from court summons.

The situation in Contra Costa and San Joaquin counties where recent cases of human infection have occurred, were considered in a board meeting. It was the consensus of opinion that while there should be an desire to quickly exterminate the pest, a firm hand must be used in the work of cleaning the affected districts, which includes also the extermination of the pest.

A report by Dr. Blue showed 45 federal and 61 county inspectors now in the field.

Leading citizens say they are now able to cope with the situation without outside assistance, although they are accepting gratefully all proffers of help.

A serious problem is the lack of stores and loss of stock and provisions. Only one grocery remains. Meat and groceries will have to be shipped in for the present to supply the population.

In Mexico, his revolution was in a large measure a farce.

Reyes was equally bitter in his denunciation of the Cientificos and did not conceal his ambition to be president of Mexico.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Robert B. Smith established himself as a maker of fine shoes in Boston seventy-five years ago. At that time women's shoes were made without heels, the soles of the shoes extending to the end of the shoe, similar to the soles of the shoes of very small children. Smith conceived the idea of putting a rather exaggerated heel to the shoe. The idea was received with great popularity by women and soon the invention revolutionized the making of women's shoes.

GIOLITTI'S POLICY. ROME, Oct. 7.—Premier Giolitti, in a speech at Turin today outlined the policy of the government regarding Tripoli, which seems to have the support of most members of the Chamber of Deputies and a majority of the people. Signor Bissolati, leader of the Socialists in the chamber, however, writes to the Secolo giving the view of the action of the Democrats, differing from that of the nation at large. In his letter Signor Bissolati says:

"Now that the occupation is accomplished, it must be decided whether Tripoli will be considered conquered territory unconditionally or whether Italy is ready to compromise—stopping the war, sparing Turkey excessive humiliations and offering her political and material satisfaction, and thus reconsidering resumption of the good relations between the two states possible."

Signor Bissolati expressed the opinion that it would be necessary for Italy to adopt a less brutal and dangerous solution, "so as to remove the impression that violence had been used by Italy," and that Italy should show a spontaneous conciliatory disposition, thus avoiding "such measures as may be proposed, if not imposed, by the power."

"If the recall is to be effective as a weapon of democracy, if it is to be made effective at all, to aid in the control of public officials, it must be made applicable to the judiciary. If a judge is unfit he ought to be removed. Judges are only men to be judged as men and not in any other fashion whatever."

MACK BOOMS CLARK FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Says Missourian Has Earned a Place as a Candidate.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Chairman Norman E. Mack of the Democratic national committee in the October number of the National Monthly, presents Speaker Champ Clark of the House of Representatives as a possible candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The list of possibilities now includes Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, Governor John H. Hurn of Ohio, Governor Thomas H. Marshall of Indiana, Governor Eugene F. Fox of Massachusetts, Governor John A. B. of New York and Speaker Champ Clark.

"The battle next year for which everybody is now actively preparing must be fought largely on the magnificent record of the present Speaker, Champ Clark. He is the man who has been the champion of the people's cause."

"Small wonder, therefore, that his name stands high in the list of the Democratic presidential possibilities. The lack of events has placed him there, for since he has made and is making the record which we must expect in the country, it is but logical that he should loom largely on the horizon as a strong presidential possibility."

AT SAN DIEGO

Governor Johnson and Francis J. Heney have spoken here, but their were the only addresses that drew large crowds. Some members of the assembly district will be selected later.

LEMON RATE CASE IS TO BE REOPENED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—It is probable that the case involving the freight rates on lemons from California points to Eastern destinations may be reopened by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The matter will be taken up on the question of traffic, rather than on a question of freight tariff control. In the case of new facts developed by the Commerce Court, the Interstate Commerce Commission will take up the situation anew and issue a new order.

It is likely that several weeks, perhaps months, will be taken in the inquiry, but eventually the commission will endeavor to conform to the law as laid down by the Commerce Court.

THREE MEN HURT IN AUTOMOBILE MISHAP

Car Turns Turtle in Big
Dry Creek; Injured
Brought to City.

Three young men were seriously injured at 1 o'clock this morning in an automobile accident on Blackstone avenue, three miles north of the city. The accident occurred at a bridge which crosses Big Dry Creek, the same spot where a man was killed in a similar accident a year ago. The only name obtainable was that of F. J. Moradian, the only person in the car to escape injury. The car turned over in the creek and was left there. After Moradian had summoned aid, the injured men were brought to the city by Dr. Floyd Rucka in his car. According to a telephone report from near the scene of the accident, one of the men was probably injured internally, while another had a badly sprained leg.

TAFT WELCOMED IN WASHINGTON

President Says Railroads
Have Seen Error of Their Ways.

SPOKANE, Oct. 7.—Spokane was the terminus tonight of one of the most picturesquely interesting days of President Taft's travels through the Far West. The day was spent in northern Idaho and eastern Washington, the principal stops being at Walla Walla, Wash., and Lewiston and Moscow, Idaho. For many hours the Presidential train wound its way through the famous Snake River canyon and from his car window the President saw some of the remarkably unique farms of the entire United States. From the water's edge these farms rose in rolling billows to the benches and hill tops on either side of the canyon. At some places they seemed almost perpendicular, but everywhere was wheat stubble, indicating that the last crop of the year had been safely harvested. All of the farms were in the dry farming district, of which the crops are raised without the aid of irrigation.

Governor Hay of Washington met the President at Walla Walla and accompanied him to this city tonight. The governor in his first speech of the day declared himself in favor of Taft's re-election. A second interesting development was the repetition of his Waterloo utterances on the relation of the government to business.

"We have put the railroads under control," he said, "and they acquiesce in it. For a time they were defiant. Now, under the steady action of Congress in increasing the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission they have realized that the whole people are greater than any part of the people, that the whole people if they move in one direction and are determined to control and bring about a just condition, are likely to win in the end, however often they may be defeated in reaching the purpose. So, too, with respect to our trusts. The industrial combinations that have controlled prices are now under the anti-trust act and are beginning to feel the heavy weight of the hand of the law."

The President, then, spoke of the Standard Oil and tobacco trust decisions the Supreme Court, referring to the Standard Oil as "the effect of trusts, the one which has been established by more acts of criminality and unscrupulousness than any other, the one which does more business abroad and is in that respect the most useful."

He referred to the American Tobacco Company as a trust "devoted by able, ingenious lawyers, for the purpose of evading the anti-trust law."

"There are other trusts in process of prosecution," the President continued, "but my own hope is that they will all recognize now that the Standard Oil and Tobacco decisions were epoch-making decisions; that they are bound to change the course and tendency of business. If they had not, gentlemen, I do not know where we would have gone. Everything would have been in a trust. The only rescue from that would have been social socialism."

CURRENCY REFORM.

Referring to the need of reform in the currency system of the country, Taft said:

"There has been a plan devised by the monetary commission. The plan has not been agreed upon in detail, but it is hoped that it will be so arranged so that neither Wall Street nor political parties in the government will have influence in respect to the issue of currency to meet the demands of the market."

The President spoke of the prosperity of the farmers and the hopes of extending the usefulness of the post-office department through a parcels post system.

"With the parcels post, with rural free delivery," he concluded, "with the telephone, with farm prices developing every ten years, apparently the farmers will become the millionaires and the United States will be found in the country instead of in Wall Street."

In introducing Taft today at Walla Walla, Governor Hay said:

"While politics should be eschewed in a meeting of this kind, I cannot help but refer to the fact, Mr. President, that it was a distinguished citizen of this city who first championed your nomination as a candidate in 1908, former Senator Anthony, and I am pleased to say to you, sir, that a large majority of our people in the state believe that the prescription that the Senator recommended in 1908 should be repeated in 1912."

When the President rose to make his reply he was laughing heartily.

"If, as the Governor says, Senator Anthony recommended me as a prescription," he said, "and you need a second dose, well, I will have to do the best I can to cure any disease you may have."

"Arriving here the President was escorted to the fair grounds and there addressed an audience of several thousand. Taft tonight proceeds to Tacoma and tomorrow will make a trip up Mount Rainier.

INJURED IN STORM BUT NOT IN DISTRESS

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 7.—The Point Loma wireless station this afternoon received a message from the Pacific Mail steamer City of Panama indicating that she had sustained damage by storm off the coast of Mexico while on her way from Panama to San Francisco. The revenue cutter McCulloch was notified and went out of the harbor and spoke the City of Panama off Point Loma. The steamer's captain said he did not need aid. The steamer Yale, which arrived this evening, reports speaking the City of Panama at 3:15 p. m., twenty miles south of San Pedro beach. Messages were exchanged and the City of Panama exchanged the steamer's distress signal. She was on her usual course.

ELEVEN ARRESTED; PRISONER ESCAPES

Eleven arrests and one escape from the county jail was the day's criminal record yesterday. The arrests were all of a minor nature, the majority being for drunkenness or vagrancy. The escape was from the county jail, where a 24 day sentence for begging, Fox was arrested on Tuesday and gave the arresting officer, Patrolman Maher, a great deal of trouble before he was landed at the jail. No trace of him was found last night.

Control, a waiter, was arrested for disturbing the peace, because he tried to make trouble in the City Bakery, after he had been discharged by the management.

Refused something he wanted, Henry Shaffer pulled a gun on a street store, kept on firing and was arrested for disturbing the peace.

Food druggist, also accused of disturbing the peace, is said to have been drunk, and while in that condition was feeling battle challenges by the whole city.

Other arrests were Mike Coyle, E. Bar, Thorton and Woe Wong for vagrancy and L. D. Hazle, Frank Beszike and J. Gao for drunkenness. Lee Messers, a lumber man, was arrested for disturbing the peace and Mike Sevans was arrested for riding a bicycle on the sidewalk.

IS SAVED BY PAROLE FROM FELON'S CELL

Son a Superior Court Judge in Court Pleading Guilty to Forgery.

"This isn't mean that a boy been does not count in the reckoning," remarked Judge Austin in paroling Paul T. Williams yesterday after reciting a list of intoxicating beverages which the prisoner may not indulge in during the forthcoming four years of his suspended sentence on the plea of guilty to forgery.

"In granting this parole, I feel that I am acting against my better judgment in view of the fact that the prisoner has before been released on parole, added the court, and addressing the prisoner more especially warned him that it would depend on him to keep out of the penitentiary and that his intervention of the parole conditions would make it only the more difficult for the next parole for him, on account of the abuse of confidence.

Williams is a son of the late R. T. Williams, who was for eighteen years judge of the Superior Court of Ventura county. The charge against him was that he forged the name of M. A. Barker to a $100 check which the father cashed for him on the 2nd inst.

Considerable influence was brought to bear upon the court to exercise its leniency to parole young Williams, strong pleas being made in his behalf by Attorney L. H. Smith for the relatives.

The parole for two years was granted conditionally that he commit no public offense and absolutely abstain from the indulgence of any intoxicating beverages. He will report weekly to Probation Officer Sessions and former Sheriff Chittenden, who was in court and is interested in the humbling work of paroling prisoners for first offense, agreed to place him at work with his street paving company.

"He is to be understood and clear here before we begin on this work," said he, "that you'll have to live up strictly to your parole and how straight to the line, because if you fall down on me I'll be the first to hand you back to the court and the sheriff to take your sentence."

Among the written pleas put in in behalf of the paroling was this one: "He had a pitiful experience in marriage. He was very much attached to his wife, a woman much older than himself, and she would not treat him right and finally left him. It upset him terribly at the time and I know made him reckless."

Sheriff J. K. Smith of Sonoma wrote that Williams was arrested in Petaluma on March 29th on a telegraphic order from San Diego for passing a check on a bank in which he had no funds. The charge was dismissed but for obtaining money under false pretenses, he was sentenced to 180 days imprisonment in the county jail and later released on probation and to leave on a sea journey to New Zealand.

"Williams is a study," wrote the sheriff. "He is a man that does not seem to realize that he has done anything wrong. I don't think he is just right."

BONDS OF CANTUA ARE NOT YET SOLD
County is Ready to Take the $2000 School Bond Issue at Par Value.

Cantua school district is in a glow over its $2,000 bond issue recently sold by the supervisors to the First National Bank at a premium of $21. The attorney for the bank afterward reported that the proceedings were not regular in that the notice had not been published for a sufficient number of days. The clerk returned the banks certified check and the sale has been hanging fire ever since.

Attorney M. G. Gallahue was before the board yesterday to induce it to make sale of the bonds to Bankers D. S. Hodggrass or A. B. Clark, either of whom will take them at par on his citation of a Supreme Court decision that the notice publication was sufficient. The Fresno bank's lawyer will not reverse himself and the supervisors did not feel safe in a second sale until the first is nullified by the bank. The latter is not ready to repudiate either and so the matter stands.

Suggestion was made to act upon a hint offered some time ago by Treasurer E. R. Kahan that the county take up bonds of school districts within the county yielding a per cent when the interest that it earns for money loaned out under the state law is only 2 per cent. Cantua district is in no danger therefore of not finding a buyer of its bonds.

FORESTER URGES BURNING SLASHINGS
State Forester G. M. Housens says that "recent investigations of cut-over lands in Eldorado, Mono and Plumas counties show that many of the slashings constitute a fire trap" and he urges the owners to clear them up before the next fire season.

When asked whether the law compelled the owners of logged off land to make a safe disposal of the debris, Housens said "chapter 292, laws of 1911, provide that the State Board of Forestry may cause an inspection to be made of any forested area to determine whether or not its condition endangers life, or property. Dangerous areas are declared by law to be a public nuisance and must be abated by the owner within a designated time otherwise the State Board of Forestry performs the necessary work and the expense incurred becomes a lien upon the property."

"The board is ready at all times," says the forester, "to assist in clearing up slashings by offering suggestions, or by preparing working plans after an examination has been made on the ground."

"Owners of summer resorts," he says, "should co-operate in the construction of fire lines, and in maintaining a paid patrol during the dangerous season." Fire plans will be prepared by the forester's office upon request.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH ELECTS NEW BOARD
Rev. H. O. Breeden May Be Called as Pastor of Church in This City.

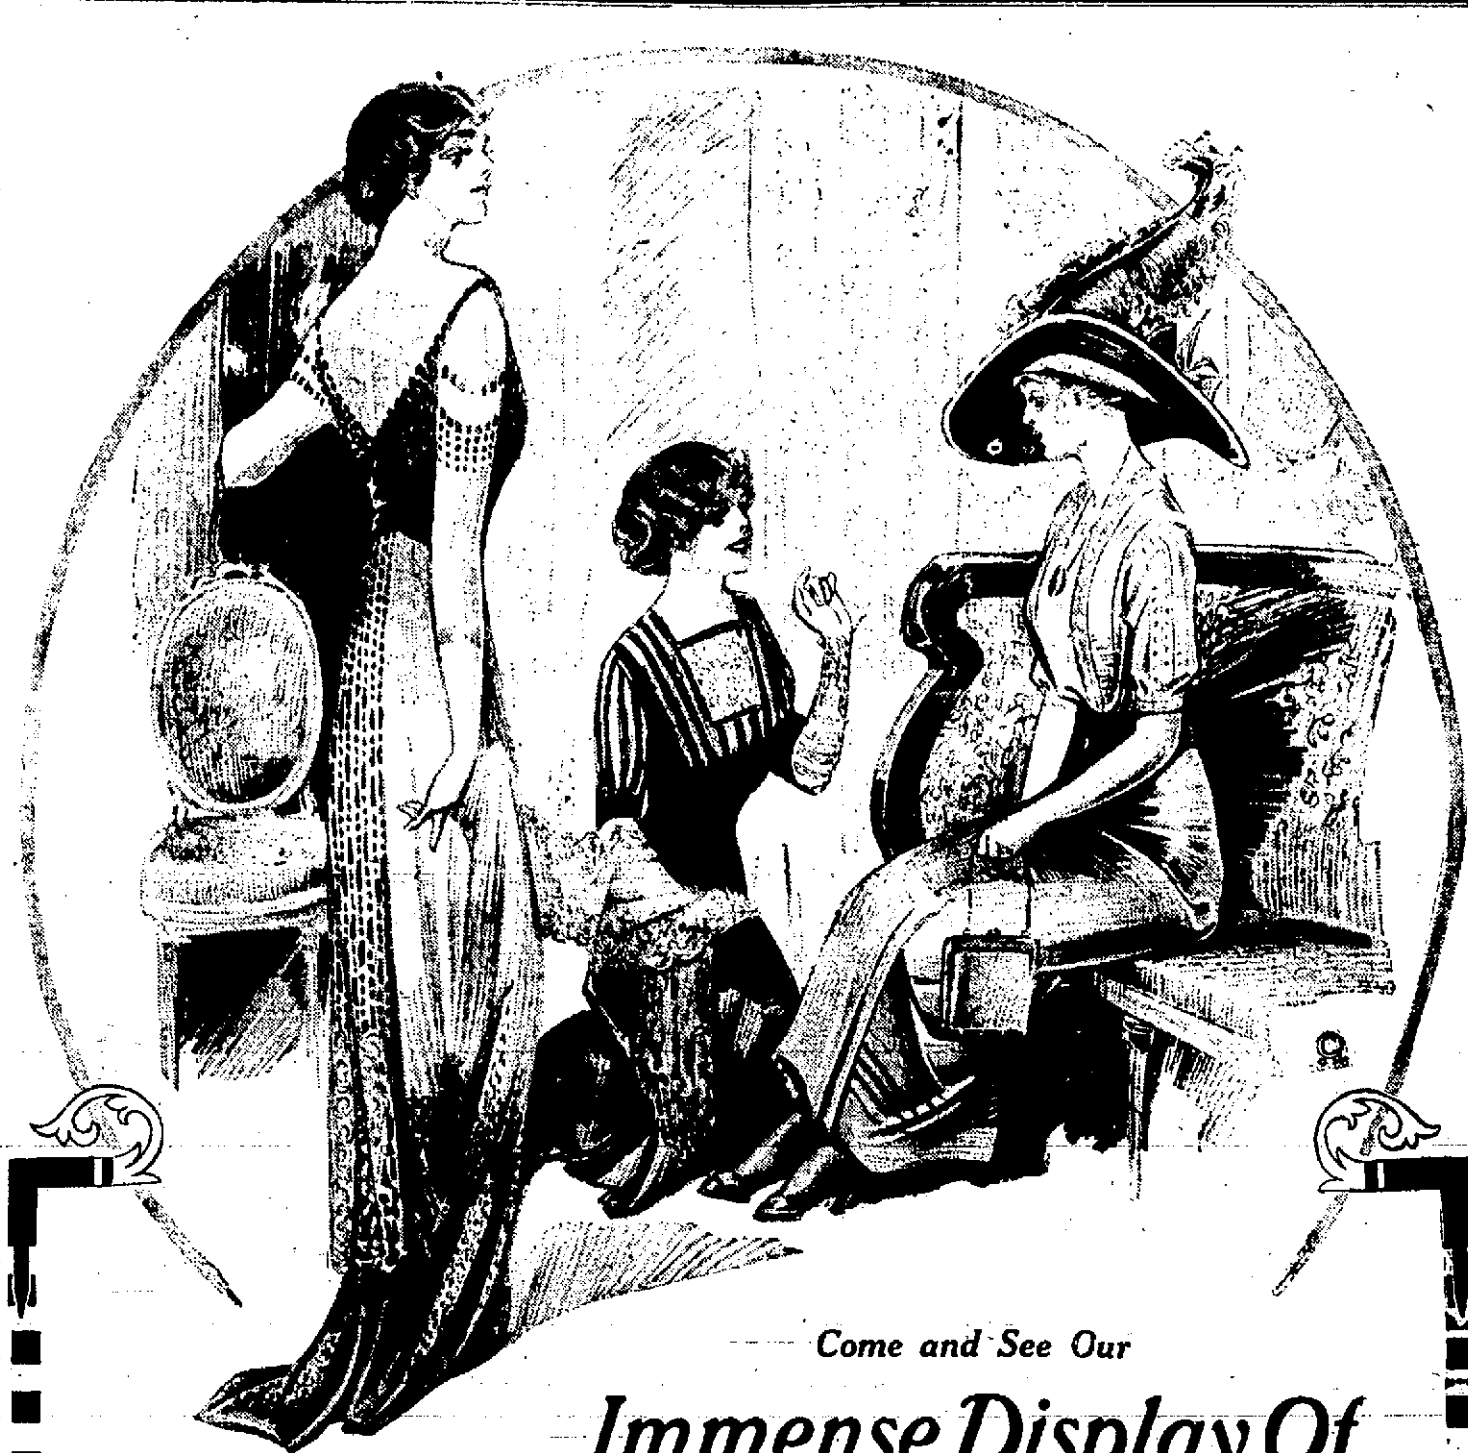

At Thursday evening's meeting of the members of the First Christian Church which was called by the official board for the purpose of a church conference, a full representation of the membership was present. A. D. McAlpine, chairman of official board, presiding, owing to differences heretofore in the official board as to policy, the board resigned and requested the congregation to elect a new board of elders, deacons and deaconesses, the former board of 42 members was reduced to 22. The church elected the new board by ballot, the meeting was the most harmonious ever held, a splendid spirit prevailing and apparently all differences have been forgotten.

The new board takes office immediately, it represents the so-called factions, everyone being entirely satisfied with the results.

The new elders elected were: R. J. Gibbs, A. D. McAlpine, L. O. Stephens, M. K. Harris, W. H. Minard, Leslie Burch. Deacons: Ed. Jones, H. F. Wakefield, W. W. Eden, A. M. Laper, L. M. Ballard, J. J. Buval, F. J. Craycroft, G. M. Boles, N. L. Bays, J. F. Donlevy. Deaconesses: Mrs. W. W. Eden, Mrs. M. K. Harris, Mrs. L. O. Stephens, Mrs. Viola Hunt, Mrs. F. J. Craycroft, Mrs. Ed. Jones.

The First Christian Church was so well built during Rev. H. O. Breeden's short meeting two years ago that many have wished he could be secured as a pastor should the pulpit ever become vacant.

A very interesting communication has just been received from A. D. Breeden, written after the close of one of his usual successful meetings in which he states he is coming home for

AMENDMENTS

The Republican again prints this morning a reduced copy of the sample ballot, and gives underneath it a brief translation of each of the twenty-three propositions into plain English. Probably there has been enough discussion of the amendments for most voters to know in general how they wish to vote, but owing to the misleading character of the language on the ballot, it is well for each voter to familiarize himself in advance with that ballot sufficiently to find on it those amendments which he wishes to vote for, and against. The explanations printed on this page under the ballot will assist in doing him.

The big measures are N. 4 (woman suffrage); N. 7 (initiation and referendum); N. 8 (tenure); N. 9 (eligibility); N. 10 (employers' liability); and the three railroad commission amendments Nos. 12, 16 and 23. Every voter should vote on these, and the Republican's recommendation is to vote favorably on them all. Of the other and minor amendments, N. 13 (railroad passes) is perhaps doubtful, and N. 22 (tax exemption) is bad in principle. The others seem all right, and some of them are very necessary. In general, it is a good set of amendments, and a generally favorable vote will not go far wrong. But of course each voter should exercise judgment, and vote against any amendment to which he is personally opposed.

LET PEOPLE DECIDE

The Democratic Woodrow Wilson League got into a hot debate yesterday over the question of consulting with Governor Johnson in regard to a presidential preference primary law. The League, apparently, were all in favor of such a law, as we suppose everybody else is, but some of the "war horse" element, led by Senator Caminetti, doubted the right of a Democratic body to have any dealings with the governor. Apparently they thought that Hiram Johnson is governor of the Republican party, or of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League, instead of governor of California. Even the Wilson League are still citizens of California, and if they happen, on this question, to agree with the remainder of the population of the state, we can understand no reason why they should not say so to the governor.

As a matter of fact, the suggestion is neither new nor original with the Woodrow Wilson League. The idea itself originates with the National Progressive Republican League, of which Senator Bourne, of Oregon, is president. Already, under the impetus of that league, presidential primary laws have been passed in nine states. Readers of the Republican will remember that this newspaper has for some time been advocating such a law for California. So far as we know, there is no serious opposition to such a law in the legislature, and we have been assuming, quite as a matter of course, that it would be passed without the need of raising much fuss about it. The last California delegation to the Republican National convention went to Chicago instructed as to California's preference by an informal "side poll" direct vote of the party. The next delegation ought by all means to go instructed by a formal vote, taken under the protection of the law. It is pleasing to know that the Wilson faction of the Democrats entertains the same desire. We suppose if there are other factions of Democrats, they would also prefer to have some official machinery provide for taking the expression of party preference under proper safeguards. Sentiment on the subject in both parties, so far as it has taken form at all, is, we should judge, practically unanimous. At any rate, if there is opposition, it will hardly take open form. Distinctly, we hope that such a measure will be presented to the coming session of the legislature and passed without delay.

California's law as it now stands is, to be sure, better than most state laws. While it does not theoretically provide for a reference of the question to the people, it does refer it to precinct delegates who are so close to the people that the practical result would doubtless amount to the same thing. But a presidential preference direct primary law would be better in practice and far better in principle. We have been taking the practice of such a law so much as a matter of course that it seemed hardly worth while to stir up any particular agitation about it, and we are confident that assumption is correct.

PICKETING PICKETS

The Southern Pacific, in Sacramento, is picketing the pickets. It is a good scheme, and one which the Republican has often suggested as the best way to reduce to absurdity and impossibility all except the legitimate claims of picketing rights. Whatever rights the pickets claim for themselves, they can of course not deny to others. If the right of the free use of the highway includes the right to stand around for the illiberal purpose of getting in the way of other people, those who claim this right can of course not object if they find other people on the highway getting in the same "peaceful" manner in their way. If the right of free speech includes the right to arrest people who wish to be let alone, and to address to them conversation to which they do not wish to listen, those who conduct these conversations have no right to object if they in turn find other persons simultaneously displaying undesired conversation to them. If it is peaceful conduct to assemble in front of a business place and continually call out "unfair trade," please do not patronize an unfair trade. It is equally peaceful for another man to be stationed beside each of these demonstrators, to say continuously to the crowd in the gentlest and politest manner, "this man is a hired liar." Incidentally, if each picket has a counter-picket stapling immediately to him, there can be no violence by or near pickets, without a competent witness to testify to it. The scheme is good. Picket the pickets. Then, while the pickets confine themselves to their really legitimate functions, the counter-pickets can do them no harm. In fact, that is just the test. Whatever rights both sets of pickets can exercise at once are thereby proved to be legitimate. Any right speciously pretended to be legitimate demonstrates its own illegitimacy at once if it becomes unworkable and self-destructive by the mere operation of being exercised by both sides.

Castellote custodes custodes!

REAPPORTIONMENT

After next Tuesday's election, the next thing will be the extra session of the legislature, whose purposes will be first to enact the legislation necessary to put the amendments into effect, and second to reapportion the state into legislative and congressional districts. The reapportionment will be the ticklish part of the job, because it is the one in which personal, local and sectional selfish interests are most involved. The last session of the legislature could not even tackle the question of congressional reapportionment, partly, to be sure, because Congress itself had not yet apportioned the total number to the various states—and on the legislative districts it adjourned in a hopeless deadlock. Unless that deadlock can be broken at the extra session, it would hardly be worth while for the legislature to meet at all.

In the last legislature there were two opinions—first, that San Francisco should get more than its share, entertained by all the San Francisco members; and second, that the country should get more than its share, entertained by all the country members. These opinions were deadlocked in contrary combinations, and finally ran up against this curious situation in the two big cities. The people of San Francisco are perfectly willing to accept the reduction in their representation called for by the census; but the legislative politicians are not willing. The people of Los Angeles, on the other hand, want all that is coming to them in the way of representation, but their representatives themselves do not want it. The explanation is simple. To the legislature the problem presents itself not as one of populations to be represented, but of representatives to "take care of." Since San Francisco now has eighteen assemblymen, any smaller number, while fair to the city under its reduced relative population, would not "take care of" these eighteen men. But since Los Angeles has now only nine assemblymen, a larger number, while necessary to represent the increased population, is not necessary to "take care of" these nine men. So the San Francisco delegation refuses to submit to a fair reduction, while the Los Angeles delegation, for the first time in the history of anything Los Angeles, does not care to insist on the full rights of Los Angeles, if some of the excess can go to "take care of" other Southern California legislators who might be squeezed out by a mathematical apportionment.

Of course all these positions are fundamentally false. They are against justice and against the constitution. There is only one method of apportionment on which all interests can agree or on which any ought to agree, and that is, the one laid down in the constitution, distributing legislative representation according to census population. This is the basis which will have to be come to eventually, and it would save trouble to agree to it from the beginning.

The question of congressional apportionment is still more difficult. The favorite method of making a preliminary plan is for some congressman, or some one interested in one congressman's district and leave it practically as it is, at most lopping off some doubtful county or taking on some safe one. Then leave the districts of any other congressman in which the apportionment happens to be also interested as nearly as possible as they are. Then, if there is some congressman the apportioner desires to defeat, fix his district so as to run some one against him who might beat him. Finally, let the rest of the state group itself any way it will. An apportionment legislature usually has as many plans of this sort laid before it as there are congressional districts to start from. This legislature is liable to be presented with at least a few of them—the more, the merrier. But the apportionment, when finally made, ought not to be stacked for or against anybody, anywhere. It ought to be as nearly as possible fair, both geographically and personally. It is probably a geographic impossibility to do this in California with eleven districts, though it could be done with ten or twelve. But the legislature should work out as near an approximation to it as possible, regardless of the pull and haul of local and sectional interests.

NEW COMPANY SECURES CONSOLIDATED MIDWAY

Los Angeles Men to Develop Property and Put It on Paying Basis.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—A new oil company, capitalized at $2,500,000, has just been organized in Los Angeles to do business on a large scale in the Midway field. This company, the New Midway Oil Company, will first begin by taking over the property of the Consolidated Midway Company. It will pay all outstanding obligations and immediately put the property in proper condition for steady production.

The Consolidated Midway brought in one of the finest wells in the Midway field, early in its history, but it has had a run of hard luck, due, it is said, to difficulties encountered in the field. These difficulties, under the new management, are to be overcome and all the holdings of the company put on a paying basis.

The incorporators of the New Midway Company are: Thomas E. Gibson, Harry Chandler, M. H. Shorrock, Chas. P. Stanley, John Hartmann, R. P. Davis and H. Edwin Moore.

The properties secured by the New Midway Oil Company are located in sections 27, 31-35, forty acres; 15, 32, 33, forty acres; 30, 32-33, forty acres; 32, 33-35, 100 acres; Kern River field; and in 21, 28-28, eighty acres, making a total of 300 acres. All of the land is regarded as some of the most valuable in the Midway, Maricopa and Kern River districts.

OLD EMPLOYEES ARE TAKING NEW JOBS

MARICOPA, Oct. 7.—With the general cutting of forces on the Maricopa lease, many of the old hands are taking positions elsewhere. Several had been with the company as long as ten years. These were not a few who did not own their own homes with all the comforts obtainable under the circumstances. Four of the men were sold yesterday to the new company, and are now planning on moving them to a place of vacant property near the Maricopa school, where they will be used for rental purposes.

REFINERY PLANNED ON COAST, REPORT

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 7.—It is reported that C. L. Merrill and associates of Los Angeles are planning on building a refinery at Avila in Stanislaus county near the terminus of the Producers Transportation line. The plan is to use the oil from the Canyon and from the Producers line. The promoters believe that Avila is the most available place for the plant, owing to the facilities for water transportation and the accessibility to the oil fields pipe lines. The company plans to erect and maintain an asphaltic reduction plant and refinery.

DOMINION CEMENTS; EXPECTS GOOD WELL

COALINGA, Oct. 7.—The Dominion Oil company, in the South Field, has completed a well at 312 feet. Superintendent Ward says that the drill went through 200 feet of oil sand which stands up in the hole, and he had a heavy gas pressure before coming back to the 2100 foot depth to cement-off. As soon as the cement sets the well will be tested, and it is believed that a good showing will be made.

ZIER IS SUCCESSFUL WITH ITS WELL NO. 4

Formerly Abandoned, Now Producing About 200 Barrels a Day.

COALINGA, Oct. 7.—William McGulley and C. H. Dillbrook of San Francisco, who are largely interested in the Zier Oil Company, section 1, 20-14, drilled the field last Sunday. They report that well No. 4 has been pulled up a few feet and re-perforated in an upper sand. The production has been increased from an abandoned well up to a well making nearly 200 barrels per day. William McGulley, superintendent, has done some good work on this property. Well No. 15, completed a short time ago, is now producing over 200 barrels per day. The rig for well No. 16 has been completed and will be spudded in early this month. The Zier is leased from the Southern Pacific. It is understood that the time of the lease has been extended to meet the requirements of the sale to the Hammond syndicate. The payment on this property will be completed November 1st.

John Duncan, general sales manager of the Wheeling Steel and Iron Company, one of the big men in the steel industry, will arrive in Coalinga during the early part of October. Mr. Duncan has been prominently identified with the great steel industry for some time, having been interested in the manufacture of steel in its various branches. Mr. Duncan had charge at one time of the sales department of the United Steel Corporation, being a prominent factor in that organization. His visit to the coast and the oil fields is to study at close range the requirements of the industry on the Pacific coast, and to familiarize himself with the necessities of the oil men in the oil field, a visit that promises much to the users of steel on this coast.

MINING MEN IN SOUTH

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—Sixty Eastern delegates of the American Institute of Mining are here today for three days' stop-over before proceeding to San Francisco for the opening of the organization's annual meeting, October 10th. The visitors are being entertained by members of the local mining organizations.

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIRS

A Few Applications of a Simple Remedy Will Bring Back the Natural Color.

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place," is an old saying which is, to a great extent, true. If no steps are taken to stop the cause, when gray hairs appear it is a sign that nature needs assistance. It is nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics and stimulants. The whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Don't delay another minute. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur at once, and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

OIL NOTES FROM COALINGA FIELD

COALINGA, Oct. 7.—The Valley Oil Company, section 22, 20-15, has re-perforated well No. 1 at 1225 feet, with 3 1/2 inch 25 pound casing. The job of cementing is considered a good one. The well will be tested in about 10 days and a show is expected.

The Vancouver Coalinga Oil Company, section 11, 20-15, has drilled the 16 inch 19 pound casing at 3329 feet. The string of 5 1/2 inch is now being set in. Drilling will be resumed this week.

The Hillman Oil Company, section 2, 23-16, has well No. 1 over 1400 feet deep with 8 1/2 inch casing. A pinched shoe necessitated pulling the 3 1/2 string of casing.

The Coalinga Mohawk Oil Company, section 12, 20-15, has closed operations after five days shut down. Dr. Valdez succeeds Wm. McKnight as superintendent.

The Aztec Oil Company, section 31, 19-12, cemented well No. 3 a few weeks ago. The well was shut down after a few days of the beam producing.

Thomas Hayes, with the Hurrah Oil Company, Limited, leaves London for New York City on October 1th, and will arrive in California about the 15th.

NO INDEPENDENT PIPE LINES IN CALIFORNIA

Carriers Are Controlled By Standard, Associated and Union.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—The recent hearing before Franklin K. Lane, Interstate commerce commissioner, in this city and elsewhere, on the subject of pipe lines, threw an interesting light on present conditions. The information secured was to the effect that the Standard, Associated and Union control all the pipe lines in California.

Representatives of the California pipe lines testified that their lines were used exclusively for the transportation of their own oil. This was true of the Associated and Standard. The Producer's Transportation Company pipe line to Port Harford was built by the Union Oil company and is used exclusively by that company. The Union's production and that of the members of the Independent Oil Producers' Agency, for which the Union is the selling agent.

The significant feature brought out by the hearing was the fact that the independent pipe line transportation in California. Producers who have large production from gusher wells testified that they wanted some means to reach the market. As the situation now stands, the producer markets his production at the wells, and if he expects to market it elsewhere he must expect to be both producer and marketer and supply storage and marketing facilities at terminal points. This means that he must enter into competition with all companies, large and small, and with his neighbor producer as well.

Some of the transporting and producing companies objected to any regulations which would open their pipe lines to carry oil for others, for fear that rival transportation companies engaged in producing and refining, would take advantage of the opportunity to ship their oil to the disadvantage of the company owning the line. One of the opposing forces raised the point that a common carrier could not inquire into the antecedents, affiliations or connections of customers.

Up to the present era of the oil industry, California, it seems, has been building of costly pipe lines over mountain and plain has been too big an undertaking for any but the biggest and wealthiest corporations, and the small producers have had to content with the truck line for their oil at the well. The building of independent pipe lines will remedy this condition and there is at present good prospect of such fulfillment.

HONOLULU PLACES HOOD OVER GUSHER

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 7.—The Honolulu Oil Company has succeeded in placing a hood over its gusher in the Buena Vista hills and the oil is now going directly into the pumps to be piped away to tanks on section 10, about three miles away. For miles around the country is blackened from the air bubbles of oil which have floated away from the gusher as the oil was shot over the derrick.

The K. T. & O. is having little trouble handling the production from its latest gusher, which is far out on the flat and lies between the two branches of the railroad as they branch from Pentland Junction for Taft and Maricopa. The gusher is a half mile from the track and is the exposure of all eyes as the passenger trains pass by.

FOWLER IN SOUTH; IS TO FLY AGAIN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—Rupert G. Fowler, the aviator who started in a trans-continent flight from San Francisco and who failed to cross the Sierras in the northern part of the state, arrived in Los Angeles today. He said he would make a new start from this city October 10th if he could have his machine ready by that time.

VALEJO, Oct. 7.—Orders were received here today to place the cruiser Raleigh in commission by October 25, for a two weeks' cruise. The destination of the ship is not known. It is expected in the yard that officers will be selected to man the ship temporarily.

JUNK DEALER HAS COMPANY ON RUN

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 7.—The suit of Aaron Name, a scrap iron dealer and creditor of the Western Steel Corporation, for the appointment of a receiver for the company was postponed a week when the case came up in the Superior Court today. Creditors of the $2,000,000 corporation were in conference today with the stockholders seeking to adjust its affairs. A plan of re-organization, leaving out of the company James A. Moore, was considered. Moore has been in New York for some time seeking it said to borrow money on the securities of the company.

THE LOCKWOOD System of Painless Dentistry

LECTURE No. 5.

I am going to tell you of my qualifications as a dentist. I graduated in 1892 from the New York College of Dentistry. The LEADING dental college in the world, and recognized as such in the East and Europe. In my class when I attended this school were students from South America, from Cuba, from the Central American states, from France, from Russia, in fact from nearly every civilized country of the globe. In the graduation classes nearly every state in the United States was represented. Its standard today as in 1892 is the highest of any dental educational institution in America. Its educational requirements for admission were then and are now, higher than any like institution in the United States. Its diploma signifies that its possessor is a THOROUGHLY QUALIFIED DENTIST. After graduating I was associated for some time with dentists that were recognized leaders--from them I absorbed some valuable knowledge on dentistry. After this for 17 years I have enjoyed a large and lucrative practice. A person seeking my advice on any matter pertaining to dentistry will have the judgment of a dentist WHO KNOWS what he is talking about.

DON'T have to GUESS whether this way or that is the proper thing to do. I KNOW, because I have passed the experimental stage.

Remember, with MY SYSTEM of dentistry WITHOUT PAIN, I FILL, CROWN, REMOVE A NERVE, do ALL the various kinds of bridge-work, EXTRACT, in fact perform ALL operations in modern dentistry ABSOLUTELY WITHOUT PAIN. Also bear in mind that the medicinal agents that I employ to subdue ALL sensation (in the tooth) contain NOTHING that is in the slightest degree injurious to the weakest constitution, besides, being applied locally to the tooth, it cannot enter the general system. My prices are reasonable; no more than any capable dentist would charge.

FIRST MOVING PICTURE.

Probably the man that can claim the greatest credit for moving pictures is Edward Muybridge, of California, Cal. why, at the instigation of Governor Leland Stanford of California, made countless pictures of the governor's celebrated trot, Occident, the first horse to trot a mile in 2 minutes, 50 seconds west of the Rocky Mountains. Occident was the pride of the governor's heart, and he engaged Muybridge to photograph him in every conceivable size and shape. In making a series of snapshots of the horse's action, Muybridge was enabled to show the exact motion. In order to satisfy the governor, he thought of a novel scheme of placing a number of cameras covering at least one-tenth of a mile. From these cameras he stretched a wire across the track at about the height of the trotter's knee. These threads being broken, each camera made a separate and distinct picture of the horse, and by putting them together and riffling from the thumb the horse could be seen in actual motion. In 1887, Muybridge sailed for England, and there in connection with six or seven others, evolved the first moving picture camera. In about 1888, some of these cameras reached America. In 1887, the patent office at Washington commenced to receive a shower of applications for moving picture apparatus both for taking and projecting purposes.—From Popular Mechanic

OAKLAND MILITIA SHUT OUT OF S. F. PARADE

OAKLAND, Oct. 7.—While San Francisco has invited Oakland's militia companies to participate in the San Francisco parade in honor of the coming visit of President Taft, Oakland has cut them out of the line of march. The militia, which is made up of the 15th Infantry, N. G. C., and Battery B, which is brand new, after finding that what had happened to them, went to the mayor who referred them to Edward Adams, chairman of the committee on amendments, who said promptly and briefly:

"The parade is too long, anyway. It is decided that some 110 men from the batteries, 500 soldiers from Fort Baker and 200 from the naval training station at Yerba Buena Island have been asked to march."

The government's decision to keep out the militia is a blow to the city's military pride.

DON'T WANT FLEET TO MAR ELECTION

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—The "Good Government" organization of Los Angeles took steps today through Senator John D. Works and Representative Stephens, to induce the Navy Department to defer the assembling of the Pacific fleet at San Pedro harbor, October 31. That is the date of the city anniversary at which time the citizens will choose between their present mayor, George Alexander, and two rivals, one of whom is Job Harriman, a Socialist, and the supporters of Alexander would nothing to interfere with the holding of a big vote.

The Good Government campaigners believe that the assembling of the fleet at San Pedro on primary election day would draw too many sightseers and cut heavily into the vote.

FISH UPSET A BOATHOUSE.

From Highland Lake comes the story that Ephraim Carrel, proprietor of the Highland Lake hotel, was fishing from a boathouse, which stands on stilts over the lake, when suddenly something grasped the pole. He grasped the most casing with one hand and in the next war of wills followed the boat-house, which was off the pond and on land. The boat-house fell into the lake. The landlord let the pole go. Winded came the New York Herald.

Is Mars inhabited? This question, of late years, has received much attention from astronomers and the thinking public. It would be one of the greatest triumphs ever achieved by science if it could be proven that Mars is inhabited by thinking human beings.

The solar system is made up of the great life-giver, the sun, surrounded by the eight large planets, Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune. Life, as we know it on this planet, the Earth, is dependent mainly on three factors, air, water and congenial temperatures.

Mercury is so close to the sun that it at times receives more than the amount of heat received by the earth. It would be much too hot on Mercury to permit life at all similar to what we have on our own planet; and there has never been any discussion regarding the habitability of Mercury.

The "Earth's twin-sister," Venus, is sixty-seven million miles from the sun

It receives more heat than we do. Very little is known of the surface of Venus; and so few markings are seen that it is not known whether Venus rotates on its axis once in twenty-four hours or once in 225 days. As so little is known, it seems futile to discuss in any serious way the inhabitants of Venus.

Jupiter, the giant of the sun's family, is covered with a shell of clouds, which change so rapidly that conditions there can be interpreted only in one way: that Jupiter is so large that it has cooled slowly and it is still far too hot to support life. The same may be said of Saturn. Of the conditions on Uranus and Neptune we know almost nothing. Of the solar system there remains but Mars. Is it inhabited? What are the Martians like? Are they further developed in the scale of civilization than are we?

Knowledge of conditions on the ruddy planet is derived by observations made with telescopes, and hence our information concerning it has progressed with the increased perfection of the telescope objective. The first maps of Mars were made by Beer and Moedler about seventy-five years ago. These were rather crude, but showed some of the main features. Other observers followed. R. A. Proctor in 1847 made an excellent map of Mars from sketches made by the eagle-eyed Dawes of England. It was thought that Mars resembled the earth in having land and water surfaces. Consequently, the light patches were called continents and the darker areas oceans, seas, straits, etc.

In 1877 began a new era in Martian map-making. But before taking up the newer discoveries it would be well to gain an intelligent acquaintance with distance and dimensions. The average distance of Mars from the sun is 141,500,000 miles. The distance from Earth to sun is 93,000,000 miles. When sun, earth and Mars are in line, with the sun and Mars on opposite sides of the earth, Mars is said to be in "opposition," and it is then closest to the earth. If earth and Mars both move in circles about the sun, the distance from earth to Mars at opposition would be forty-eight million miles. But neither orbits are circular, that of Mars being much more elliptical than that of the earth, with the result that at opposition Mars may be as far away as sixty-one million miles from the earth when there is an inferior opposition; or Mars may come as close as thirty-five and a half million miles away when it is as near as it can possibly come to the earth and its opposition is then the most favorable possible. At such times Mars is brightest in the sky and appears of great size.

Mars makes a circuit about the sun once in 687 days, the earth in 365 1/2 days. The earth being more rapid in its orbital motion than Mars, after it passes Mars at opposition catches it again at the next opposition, in how many days? This is a simple question, and the answer is 780 days, which is called the synodic period. Hence, every two years and fifty days Mars is at opposition; it then near the earth and quite bright. As seen above, all oppositions are not quite equally good; at the most favorable opposition, Mars is about four times as bright as at the unfavorable one. After a highly opposition seven synodic periods or nearly fifteen years must elapse before an opposition equally favorable occurs. Such oppositions occurred in 1877, 1892 and 1907.

A moderate-sized telescope shows permanent markings that may be divided into three classes. About three-fifths of the surface is of a yellow, ochre color, the "land" of Mars. Two-fifths is of darker color, and by analogy with the earth, was thought to be water. At the poles of the planet, white areas accumulate in the Martian winter and disappear in the summer; and these are generally thought to be polar ice-caps. These ice-caps show the presence of an atmosphere on Mars, and make certain that the climate on Mars has seasons. As a matter of fact, the day on Mars is not much different in length from our own, for the planet rotates once in 24 hours, 37 minutes; and the seasons are quite similar, for the axis of Mars is tilted 24 degrees, the earth's 23 1/2 degrees.

In 1877 the Italian Schiaparelli startled the astronomical world by stating that he could see, running from the so-called seas into the continents, fine dark markings, more or less straight, which looked like rivers or canals. These markings, he said, were like the English Channel, which separates England from France, and hence they are called by the Italian equivalent "canali." No reference at all was made to canals of human construction. Two years later Schiaparelli thought he saw some of the canals were doubled. This aroused a great amount of skepticism, for he possessed a telescope of only eight inches in diameter, and no one else could even see the markings, let alone see them doubled. Unhappily, Schiaparelli was a little over-zealous; and for years he alone could see the canals. It was not until 1896 that the construction of a large telescope in Nice permitted Perrotin to be the second man to see these markings. Needless to say these canals on Mars are excessively difficult to see, they are described as fine, hair-like lines that appear only under the very best conditions of seeing. But throughout the world there has been only an astronomer here and another there who could see them.

A favorable opposition occurring in 1892 permitted Mr. Perrotin to make a close study of the planet. He had constructed by the Clarks an excellent lens of twenty-four inches aperture, which he used in the excellent climate of the West. Lowell is firmly convinced that the "canals" are canals, artificial waterways constructed by human beings. His work has been most excellent, and deserves the highest commendation. His reasons for believing Mars is inhabited will be told later.

BROOK'S COMET.

Comet 1911c, discovered by Brooks, is visible to the naked eye. On October first it will be brighter than the fifth magnitude, and may be found from the ephemeris below or from its position given on the map above. It appears as a nebulous star, but will be a little difficult to find on account of its rapid motion in the sky. It passes closest to the sun on October 27, when it will be forty-five million miles from the sun. It was closest to the earth on September 17, when it was forty-eight million miles away. Its own motion about the sun combined with that of the earth has caused its rapid motion in the sky. At the middle of September, the comet was a circumpolar object 57 degrees north declination. Its motion on October first is southwest in the constellation of the Hunting Dogs. The ephemeris follows:

September 21—right ascension 5h. 21m. 12s; declination, plus 53, 1 degree, 55 seconds.
September 25—right ascension, 14h. 51m. 17s; declination, plus 49, 21 degrees, 1 seconds.
September 29—right ascension, 14h. 17m. 41s; declination, plus 44, 58 degrees, 56 seconds.
October 3—right ascension, 13h. 49m. 52s; declination, plus 40, 6 degrees, 42 seconds.
October 7—right ascension, 12h. 26m. 46s; declination, plus 31, 21 degrees, 0 seconds.

On September 2, Professor Barnard obtained an exquisite photograph with a four-hour exposure. Though the comet showed no tail even in the 40-inch telescope of the Yerkes Observatory, it still eight degrees in length was seen in the photograph. This tail was 10,000,000 miles in length, the diameter at the head was half a million miles. Amateurs should watch the comet carefully. On October first it sets in the northwest by ten o'clock, but its rapid motion southwest makes it set earlier each night, so that on the seventh it sets at nine o'clock. It will soon set as early as the sun, when it will become invisible to be seen later before sunrise.

THE PLANETS

Mercury is too near the sun to be seen. Venus is a brilliant morning object rising before the sun. On October 17, Mars becomes stationary among the stars, then begins to move west, or retrograde, at first slowly then with increasing speed. It will diminish the distance between it and Saturn, but will not overtake the latter.

ACTIVE BUILDING BOOSTS LOAN BUSINESS

Marvelous Increase in Transactions Because of Development.

Important Sales Reported in Country and City Properties.

"Our loan business has increased 500 percent of late," says a prominent banker here. "The amount of loans means, not that people are hard up, but that they are improving their property."

"Our loan business is keeping us going, and every bit of it at present, without exception, is for new buildings."

These are observations from real estate and loan people yesterday used to tell the tale of the present activity in this city. While the observation is common that there is not a marvelous increase in the number and value of country properties changing hands, everybody remarks on the marvelous amount of development work being done in Fresno, now going hand in glove with it, the active movement in city lots which continues when no other transactions are put on record.

ACTIVITY ELSEWHERE

However, the record of the things doing in the real estate business shows that activity is by no means confined to the city or its environs, but is being felt all through the valley. At the Calwa townsite, which is a mile south of Fresno, it is reported that things are very active now, but that the major part of the building and kindred work is expected to follow the building by the Santa Fe railroad of houses for its new yards there. When the sound of the saw and the hammer is in the air it is expected that things will begin in earnest for the making of the new town, which is confidently expected to grow up in this suburban locality.

Out in Clovis a number of good deals in country lands are known to be pending, and this week the California Peach company, a corporation, bought 800 acres of the McCool and Kellie tract, which property will be planted to peaches. This was formerly the Potter grain ranch, and is only just being opened up to anything like improved farming. The amount involved in the deal is not given out.

SALES OF LOTS

Here are some of the sales in Fresno lots that are reported for the week just past:

Robert D. Shibley and Company report the sale of two lots on Dudley avenue, just off Northcamp to A. Terkel for $675; two lots on Dudley avenue, adjoining former property, to Mrs. Hill, for $675; a parcel of land 4x125 feet on the west side of Little street, near McKenzie, to G. C. Cannon, for $1,000; two lots on West avenue to A. F. Cripps for $600. Terkel expects to build on his new property.

L. F. Higginbotham, of W. E. Bush and Company, reports the sale of a house at 414 Sun Park avenue from G. W. Brown to H. H. Sutter for $2,500; house at 513 Northcamp avenue, from

Ready to Build Delano School; Many New Schools Planned

Architect's drawing of the new $45,000 high school to be built at Delano, plans for which are ready and construction on which is to begin in the very near future.

Cited as an evidence of the real substantiality of the great growth of this valley in population and development, interest is being shown in the movement for the securing of more and better high school buildings throughout this section. Among the more immediate of these jobs is that on the new high school for Delano, plans for which are completed, and everything merely waiting for money to be received on the bonds. The plans are being handled by A. C. Swartz and Son. The school will cost about $45,000, and it is expected active work will begin this week, as the bond money is expected in two or three days. The great activity in building of high schools and other school buildings was led off by the erection of the high school annex in this city, which is now in use.

Plans will be out in about two weeks for an annex which will be built to the Reedy high school at a cost of about $18,000. Reedy is now working on an addition to the grammar school, being built at a cost of $30,000.

Plans will be out in about ten days for the $22,500 high school to be put up at Le Grand. Both these jobs are being handled by Swartz and Son. Sanger will vote on the 14th inst.

on bonds for the erection of a new $60,000 high school, as it is felt greatly increased facilities are now needed there.

Among the newer jobs in primary schools for country districts, are those in the Empire Colony and Perrin districts in this county, and the Linder district in Tulare county, all being handled by Swartz and Son. Contract for a two-room addition to the Empire school was let during the week to A. L. Wilkins for $2,850. J. W. Bingham got the contract for the Perrin school, a one-room structure, at $1,600. Contractor Humbley has the Linder job, at about $2,700.

BUILDING RECORD FOR OPENING WEEK OF OCTOBER SHOWS LARGE INCREASE

Value of permits for week ending October 7	$34,514
Value of permits issued for October to date	34,514
Value of permits issued for year to date	825,322
Value of permits issued for September	79,685
Number of permits issued for week ending October 7	11
Number of permits issued for October to date	11
Number of permits issued for year to date	570
Number of permits issued for September	65

Beginning with a bumper record of $35,514 in permits for the week, October promises to run ahead of September with ease in the matter of the extent of building activities in the city. With the same clip maintained, the total for the month would be almost $140,000. Except on the few occasions when some of the largest jobs ever started here were filed with the city engineer, the sub-book in his office has seldom shown things starting off better. It is now believed that the real fall activity in building is on, and that some things in this line such as have never been seen here before will be witnessed during the next few months. Then there is a large amount of building all around the outskirts of the built-up district which never appears in this record because of the fact that the built-up district on every hand overreaches the city limits. In some directions to a considerable distance. An inter-building of small homes is necessary in this new territory, all this activity does not show in the official record.

GOOD PRICES FOR CROPS EAST WILL BENEFIT CALIFORNIA

Saunders Says People in East Have Money and Will Come West.

Says Fresno Can Have 1915 Realty Convention If Desired.

William E. G. Saunders, a real estate man who is doing business both here and in the east, said yesterday on his return from the East that a great movement of eastern people into this state may be expected this winter. He stated that this will not be because of crop failures, as has been stated by others, but will rather be because excellent prices have been received for apples and the people have money with which to travel and seek more desirable homes elsewhere.

Saunders attended the recent convention of the National Real Estate Association at Denver, at which Fresno made a bid for the convention in 1915, exposition year, and he stated yesterday that there is not the least doubt Fresno can get it if the people here go after it right.

"But it is going to be a big thing if we only succeed in bringing the convention to some place on the Coast," he added. "The body is composed of the best real estate men in the country, and we would get a lot of them here if the convention were in any Coast city. In fact I have a large number pledged to come to Fresno if the 1915 convention is west of the Sierras."

MANY PEOPLE HERE. Saunders remarked that California need not expect and does not need any deluge of new people now. "They are here, lots of them, looking around for places to locate, and you can rest assured many of them are going back East to stay. The people are here, and it is only a matter of getting them to realize the advantages of this community."

"However, there is also going to be a big infusion of new people as well. Not a flood, as I said, but a steady, great, healthy, steady movement West that is going on and may be expected during this winter."

"One reason why the people will come is that they have in many sections received good money for crops. There is nothing in the fact about people coming West because their crops fall at home. They come, not when they are without ready money, but when they have it. Such prices as were received for corn this year, for instance, an about 50 cents a bushel, mean prosperity, and mean that the people will have money with which to reach out and do things."

"What is needed is a natural rather than a spectacular growth. For instance, they should get together on this rainy business here, so that a fair and equitable price could be maintained, and then you would not see a big concrete building going up here, but a whole lot of them, and also the prosperity that goes with them and with what they stand for."

LEFT THREE WEEKS AFTER MARRIAGE

Nicolai Iolma for 27 years in the employ of the Sherry Flour Mills Company, was divorced yesterday by Judge Austin from Margie Iolma whom he married in Stockton in February, 1903. The remarkable feature of his testimony was that while the divorce took place three weeks after marriage he has lost absolute trace of the wife and during all this time he never made an effort to find or locate her. He stated that there was no disagreement or quarrel when she departed, but that when she left for Los Angeles, her former home, she said it was to close up some real estate business whereupon she would return. She never did come back.

START WORK SOON ON PLAYGROUND PAVILION

Revised Plans Agreed on; Will Occupy Building Early in 1912.

New Hotel Planned for H and Mariposa to Cost $90,000.

As a result of a conference held yesterday between Mayor Chester Rowell, City Engineer Jensen, Architect C. K. Kirby and H. L. Felchlin, a steel structural engineer representing Dyer Bros. of San Francisco, it was announced last night that favorable bids have been received for the steel and bridge work for the playground pavilion, or city convention hall, which will be put up on the corner of Kern and I streets. Further, it was announced that active steps will be taken within the week to get construction started, and that the building will be ready for occupancy in January or February. The total cost of the building will be about $35,000, and it will require thirty days to build it.

The conference yesterday was for the consideration of modified plans for the pavilion. The parties to the conference reached a full agreement on the plans, which will make the building practically fireproof. The estimates have been brought within the amount of money that the city will spend on the building and contracts are to be let and other preliminaries got out of the way at once.

With favorable bids in for both the steel and mill work, it is satisfactory to get bids in for the brick and concrete work, and it is hoped that the local dealers will co-operate to the greatest possible extent in bringing down the figures to the most reasonable amount.

The work will probably be done under the direction of the board of park commissioners of this city.

PLAN BIG HOTEL. After negotiations lasting over about a year, building plans have been completed for the erection of a modern hotel. (Continued on Page 14.)

E-M-F 30 FLANDERS 20 Successful Service

There is just one conclusive test of a motor car, and it is a simple test. Anybody can make it. Find out the price of a car, then find out what service that car is giving owners of one, two and three years' standing. Not only how it ran during the first three months of use, but how it runs TODAY. Then measure up your price and service and get the answer.

"Quality at their Price." Here is the secret of the wonderful sales of E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars. We have said it often—"Quality and Price." We will continue to say it over and over again.

We know beyond the shadow of a doubt that no cars more efficient than the E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" are built anywhere. That isn't presumption. It is the certain provable truth, for the very good reason that the extent and economy of our manufacturing resources have been developed to an unequalled degree. No other factories approach ours.

As an inevitable result of this our cars on the road have made a surpassing record. In accomplishments of utility, economy and endurance they have made new standards of value. Forget their low price for a moment. Price is no indication of quality, only service can be that. Look at the achievements of these cars, the enthusiasm of their owners. The general conviction that here is the last word in automobile value, the car embodying the maximum of quality. And with these circumstances in mind the happy conviction must come to every automobilist that these cars will continue to be as they are today—the most sought for automobiles in the world.

SOCIETY

Miss Ethel Pierce, who was a luncheon hostess on Friday, complimenting several society maids who leave Tuesday on a European tour.

The Fresno Musical Club stands for the "Best in Music" in all that it does in furthering the artistic life of Fresno—and each season witnesses some of the leading stars of the vocal and instrumental instrument of Europe and America. Each season they strive to advance in artistry over the preceding year. The season of 1911-1912 should prove this statement and in their announcement of four of their attractions they point with pride to the roster. Manager L. B. Behrmer of Los Angeles who furnishes all the well-known attractions touring westward was in Fresno last night and spoke to the Republican representative freely on the subject of the Musical Club work. "I consider the work the ladies of Fresno Musical Club are doing as worthy of a better reception from the public of Fresno. Each season this club pledges itself to do certain work in the pioneer line and for the education of the young and struggling musicians and the music students of Fresno if they did not do this year commercial clubs would overlook it, your merchants would be too busy and your musicians are too few to do it, and so this band of faithful workers take it upon their selves to do it. Every woman in Fresno should be a member of this club and work for its success. Instead of 350 members there should be 800, and the work would be easy. In Sacramento the Saturday Club has 1416 members, each paying $6 per year for 12 concerts and a visiting list of over 400 Sacramento women are on the list if they can get a larger hall, think what they would do with 35,000 a year to spend for artists and education can do, and Fresno could easily do half as much if the women of this city were only a unit on this subject, which brings so much elevation to the schools and the homes."

The first artist will be David Bispham, the most eminent operatic and concert baritone America has produced. This will be his second visit to Fresno, coming about November 20th to open the season. He is well remembered here and was one of the most popular artists with the Fresno music-lovers.

Mr. Bispham is assisted by Mr. Harry M. Gilbert, pianist and accompanist, a gifted performer who gives great pleasure wherever heard.

The second concert will bring Pepito Arriola, possessing a genius not alone of the kind given to pianists, who are born, not made, but he is a genius that is included in the heaven-sent artistic insight. It is a matter for wonder that a boy of 13 should be able to play so movingly, as poetically and as authoritatively as Pepito Arriola. Last season he played twice with the Geothic Symphony Orchestra, under Henry Hadley and is already engaged by Hadley for San Francisco. This season the youngest has 16 engagements with the big orchestra of the east and is one of the few artists engaged most every place where he played last season. Los Angeles takes four concerts alone. Arriola has been decorated by the Emperor William and has given recitals before the crowned heads of Europe and at Berlin was accorded all honor due an artist of note. He spent a part of his summer at the Imperial Palace. Over one hundred concerts from Denver, the greatest of the wonderful hold Pepito Arriola has upon the music lovers of the coast.

A third concert will be the coming of that greatest of all chamber music organizations—the celebrated Piquette Quartette from Switzerland, the most celebrated of all the ensemble organizations of the world.

The quartet devotes its entire time to the cultivation of chamber music, its singleness of purpose and lofty aims are shown in a mutual agreement not to teach, play in orchestra, or accept individual engagements, and in this respect it is wholly unique among organizations of its class. It is interesting to note that the Piquette Quartette is the only European String Quartette ever brought to America.

The instruments played by the four artists are a Stradivarius, two Guaragnis and a Tortori of greatest value.

The fourth event under consideration will be the return of that most exquisite artist Lily Dorn, the dramatic soprano, who closed the season last year. Miss Dorn is again touring the coast this year and enjoying the splendid artistic success of last year. During the summer Miss Dorn gave with Harriet Ware, the composer, a series of "Ware" programmes throughout the east and a program of American composers as well, headed by the Ware compositions. Miss Ware thinks Lily Dorn sings her songs as no other interpreter can sing them and has arranged to tour the Pacific coast this spring playing the accompaniments to her own compositions with Miss Dorn as soloist. If the Fresno Club can secure a date of these two artists, a fourth treat will be in store. With such a quartette of artists—a world-wide reputation the Fresno Club should double its membership, and the public should be congratulated on possessing such a band of ladies who will assume the responsibility.

The first "Home Day" of the club will be given on Saturday, when the following musicians will participate: Miss Martha Harris, pianist; Miss Julia Harris, soprano; Miss Lillian James, violinist.

The program is as follows:

- I. Aria, "My Heart is The Sweet Voice" (Soprano and Violin) Saint-Saens, Julia Harris
- II. Second Violin Concerto, DeBorja, Ambrose, Lillian W. James
- III. Etude, Op. 10, No. 3, Heitor, Martha Louise Harris
- IV. "Milkmaid in the Wood," Goez, Harmony, Teresa del Riego

PART TWO.

- I. Polonaise, Chopin, Wladyslaw, Little Nocturne, Frederick Vech, Lillian W. James
- II. "A Cycle of Life," Landon Ronald, Prudence, Summer, Autumn, Winter, Julia Harris
- III. Morning, Andrias Dance, from "Peer Gynt" Suite, Grieg, Grein, Martha Louise Harris
- IV. Concertstück, from "The Merry Widow," von Weber, Adagio, Phil Messo, Julia Harris

(Orchestral parts on second piano.)

Seventy tickets will be put on sale on the 12th and 13th at Monroe's Drug Store.

One of the most elaborate affairs of the season was the reception which was presided over yesterday afternoon by Mrs. H. H. Alexander at her home on Fairbank Avenue. Several of the town's guests were the inspiration for the affair, among them being Mrs. S. H. Quinby of Newcastle, Mrs. Harry Green of Berkeley, and Miss Geneva Ellis of Alameda. The attractive rooms of the lovely home were beautiful for the occasion with artistic arrangements of all blossoms, red roses and red dahlias in the richest of shades glowing in the living room and library where the punch bowl was placed and also in the cozy den, which had been converted into a sort of rest haven. Pink La France roses, were arranged in the dining room where dainty refreshments were served.

Mrs. Alexander was perfectly queenly in a stunning black satin gown, handsomely trimmed, and Mrs. Quinby was attired in a dove-colored mesalim with Persian trimmings.

Mrs. Harry Green wore an elaborate white lace robe and Miss Ellis was pretty and girlish in a frill of sea green mesalim with wee pink satin rose buds. Mrs. M. E. Tilton, the hostess, sister was attractive in an old rose gown, shaped with marquisette. Mrs. J. S. Jones, who was also in the receiving line was elaborately gowned in a Persian frill in tones of lavender, with a picture hat to correspond. Mrs. H. V. Rudy was attired in black satin.

In the dining room, Mesdames T. M. Hayden, A. C. Clark, J. N. Puck, George L. Warlow, and J. M. O'Brien served dainties assisted by Misses Persia Alexander, Jennie Wilson, Georgia Clark, Eva Clark, Mary Osborn and Pearl Swanson. Miss Marjorie Harris and Miss Edith Hayden, presided at the punch bowl.

Miss Ellis, who was seated next to Mrs. Alexander, was the first to compliment the hostess. She was accompanied by Mrs. S. H. Quinby, who is now in the city on a visit. Little Mary Louise Parsons was seated in pink and her mother received with great responsibility. About two hundred guests responded to the invitations to call.

In the evening, Mrs. Persia Alexander, the young daughter of the house, presided over the affair. She was very popular in Fresno since she came to live in the city last season. Her many friends are very regretful that her marriage is to take her away from here. Mr. and Mrs. Condit are to spend about a year in touring the United States.

Miss Sigie Christie, the soprano soloist, on the program for the Parlor Lecture Club reception.

Many of the American colleges have "put on" out of door dramas during the year's entertainments that have become yearly events.

"Carnel-by-the-Sea" became a beautiful amphitheater in the forest where are presented some wonderfully clever productions. Especially in the summer when the vacationists fill the little seaside town and crave some outlet for their artistic talents.

The mid-summer jinks of the Hohenheim Club of San Francisco at Guerneville in their wonderful grove of redwoods have long been the inspiration for magazine and press criticisms of length. Of course, these productions are witnessed only by club members. The play is written for some member especially for the event and the personage of the cast is often composed largely of professional actors, the membership claiming many who are prominent in the limelight.

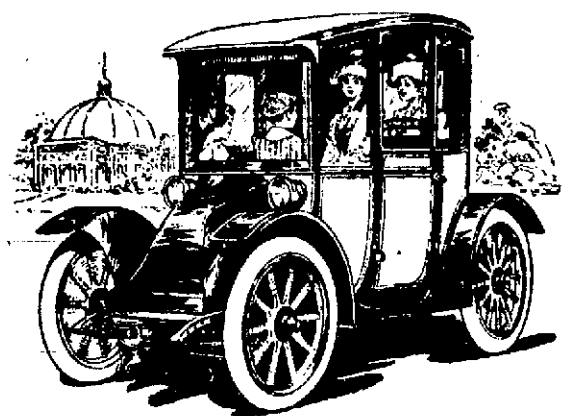

To come down to something less professional in attempt, a most successful venture was made by sixty boys and girls of a settlement house in New York, who gave "The Birthday of Spring" on the roof of the Waldorf Astoria.

One of the cleverest performances given by children was a little poetical play called "In Woodland Haunts." It was written by one of the cast (no number of which was over 11 years of age), and given in the garden of Hobart Nichols in Lawrence Park, New York.

There is a splendid thought in the article, that children are brought up to be great uniformly and should be encouraged in originality. To increase the joy of life, school routine should be varied, and sometimes is by "play acting." Young people should have the chance to depict themselves in characters, tableaux, private theatricals for the good of their artistic nature. Nothing is sadder than to see a young person in whom all such instincts have been stifled. A career without a childhood is as unnatural as a day without a dawn.

With the recently formed country club, whose membership includes a variety of talents, and with grounds that are so exquisitely appropriate for an affair of this kind, great hopes are being incubated. The lovely homes of (Continued on Next Page.)

FACTS ABOUT YOUR TEETH

TOLD BY
Drs. Free, Carmichael & Free

Toothache follows tooth neglect and, in a majority of cases, the loss of teeth is due to the same cause, viz: Tooth neglect. No one would think of neglecting their teeth if they had realized in advance the troubles that are the inevitable result of failure to maintain teeth health. You may not know that decay has attacked the tooth structure only by having the mouth examined, and for this reason regular visits to the dentist are a part of life to those who appreciate the value of good teeth in the preservation of health.

Judge Austin granted yesterday afternoon to the contractor a judgment by two of the three arbitrators in the dispute between G. W. Thompson and Lawyer James Gallagher over a block of land northwest of Kern and I streets. The arbitrators were J. E. Collins, J. W. Kirby, Jr., and T. E. Collins. The judgment was in favor of the contractor, who had offered to build a playground pavilion on the land for $10,000. The contractor had been awarded the contract by the board of arbitration, but the contractor had objected to the award of the board. The arbitrators had then held a hearing and had reached their decision.

That the board be empowered to award the contract to the contractor for the sum of $10,000, payable in 12 months without interest. That the contractor pay for the cost of the arbitration, and that the contractor pay for the cost of the arbitration, and that the contractor pay for the cost of the arbitration.

According to the contractors, this building should be done by January first. On the other hand, the contractors figure on getting it by March 1st. The frame is now as high as the building will go, and the concrete work will soon be done. Interior work in parts of the building has also progressed.

At a meeting Friday of the officers of the Congregational church of this city, it was decided to make an active campaign for the building fund during the present week, looking toward the immediate taking up of construction work on the new church building, which is to be on the corner of M and N streets. # The Wilson and Alhambra Tracts

In The Most Approved Section

The Wilson and Alhambra Tracts are in the section of Fresno that has been selected by disinterested persons as the most desirable in which to build the new State Normal. This speaks well for this part of the city, as there was a great deal of competition and every portion of the city had its merits investigated. The verdict of the committee was that this section is the best. This is just additional evidence that this tract is the place in which to build a home. It is a restricted district and lots will increase in value steadily.

10 Minute Car Service Every Modern Improvement

There are street cars every ten minutes on this tract, which is another important feature, one that is of supreme importance to those who have to work in the business portion of Fresno. This tract will have all modern improvements, such as gas, city water, electric lights, and telephones. It is in every respect modern and no more desirable residence lots are to be found anywhere. Fresno is growing in this direction with greater rapidity than in any other, which means that values will increase faster. At any time that any property holder wishes to sell he will be able to do so at an advance.

Will Have Sidewalks and Sewers Soon

In a very short time the work of laying concrete sidewalks and sewers will commence. This will give this district everything that the oldest parts of Fresno have. It will make this part of the city the most wanted section. Now is the time to buy lots. These lots are too valuable to remain long on the market.

S.S.S. REMOVES ALL HUMORS FROM THE BLOOD

The cause of all skin diseases can be traced to some humor in the blood, and therefore the cure of any skin trouble can come only through a thorough cleansing of this vital fluid. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., relieve some of the itching and discomfort, help to reduce inflammation, or aid in keeping the cuticle clean, but such treatment does not reach the blood, and of course can have no real curative effect. S.S.S. cures Skin Diseases of every kind because it purifies the blood. It is an internal remedy for an internal trouble, and works on the only reasonable and certain method of cure. S.S.S. removes all acids and humors from the circulation and leaves the blood stream rich, healthy and nourishing in order that it may supply the cuticle with the necessary properties to restore it to its smooth, normal condition. Then a cure results because the old exciting cause has been disposed of. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice sent free to all who write. S.S.S. is sold at drug stores.

Lots Within the Reach of All

The Best Low Priced Lots In Fresno On Terms That Are Within the Reach of Everyone

On Two Car Lines.

One of the features about Boyd's Addition that appeals most forcibly to those who work in town is the fact that it is on two car lines. This gives it good transportation and a frequency of car service that is lacking in many suburbs. Boyd's Addition is in a part of the town that is bound to grow, as it is in the direction in which Fresno is growing most rapidly. It is a pleasant place in which to reside and has building restrictions that are not hard to meet, yet are rigid enough to exclude all undesirable persons. These restrictions will make all of the houses keep to a certain standard that will make Boyd's Addition a beautiful suburb.

On Ventura
Avenue

Ventura avenue is one of the most beautiful and popular drives in the county. There is a great deal of traffic on it. This is another thing that makes Boyd's Addition superior to many suburbs; it will not be a lonely place to live. It is pleasantly situated and has this beautiful avenue on one side of it.

Recreation Park, one of the show places of Fresno is close to Boyd's Addition. This beautiful park is a splendid place in which to spend summer afternoons and evenings besides having many other desirable features. Across the road from Recreation Park are the County Fair Grounds where the Fresno Fairs are held. Recreation Park and the County Fair Grounds, two car lines, and Ventura avenue are all things that will prove a distinct advantage in helping values to rise besides making Boyd's Addition one of the nicest places in which to live. Taken all together, there is no more desirable tract in Fresno. The lots are selling at a low price and on easy terms.

Values must increase in Boyd's Addition because Fresno is a rapidly growing town. It is already the largest city in the San Joaquin valley, and is rapidly overtaking the larger cities in population. The direction of growth is in the direction of Boyd's Addition, and these lots will be worth several times their present value within a few years.

REPORT CASTLE OUT AFTER LAYER RAISINS

Some Thompsons Bought
Up at 5 1-2c; Weather
Is Closely Watched.

Added to various confirmed reports of nibbling by packers who want raisins and are being forced out gradually to get them, came the report yesterday from districts east of here that late in the week, Castle Bros. had been out looking for layer goods. Further, one buyer declared yesterday that he has been forced of late to cover some sales of Thompsons that were made on a comparatively low basis and paid a 1-2c for the goods he bought.

The buying operations have remained very restricted in nature, according to the current reports, and there was a good deal of speculation yesterday as to what packers are really going to do, in face of the fact that early delivery of goods are so light that everybody is afraid October sales cannot be met without bidding for the early crops. The weather is being watched very closely, as it is felt it is now one of the most potent factors of the whole situation. During the season, nothing can be done, according to some of the men in Packers' Row, to prevent almost every house in the business being forced into the buying market, to get the wherewithal to meet their demands for October shipments.

FAIL TO GET JURY IN FLEMING TRIAL

REDDING, Cal., Oct. 7.—Proceedings in the trial of Daniel Fleming of Oakland, accused of the murder of George Valler, came to a temporary end today when the jury panel of 125 veniremen was exhausted and only three had been selected as prospective jurors. The case was adjourned until Monday, October 16th, and in the meantime 100 talesmen will be summoned. Sheriff Montgomery was held by the court to be disqualified to serve summonses and Coroner Larkin was appointed clerk, to summon the prospective jurors. Valler was found dead on the roof of a Southern Pacific car, and the prosecution alleges that he was killed by Fleming then in the company's employ.

REMINISCENCES OF UNCLE BILLY HUTCHISON

MEN OF EARLY DAYS BET ALL ON HORSE RACE

(By W. G. Hutchison.)

I stepped at one last week, was immediately called out of town on business for ten days. However, it may be that lots of people will be glad to read of my life. I have been up around my old stomping ground, the Upper Kings River country, and although I visited it occasionally, the improvements I found in the country were a great surprise. I stopped near the station of Madera, on the Santa Fe, which is situated at the foot of the San Joaquin hills, and is a suburb of "Lubbock." They are making extensive and permanent improvements; have a dirt just like the one at Reedley, are hauling in loads of dirt and filling in from two to four feet all around the place, and if they don't have "Lubbock" to contend with, might make quite a town. You won't find "Lubbock" on the map, but I assure you it is all there.

While on my travels, I ran across another rather good story, of the old mining days of Mariposa. As the story goes, there was a man there at that time it was told his name, but have forgotten it, who was born and raised south of Mason and Dixon's line, and was a miner, gentlemanly fellow, but like thousands of others of that day, was addicted to periodical spasms. One day when he had been to town after supplies and had finished rather freely, he packed his horse and started for home and in a narrow place on the trail, called the "hog's back," met some Chinaman who refused to give the trail, and shoved his burro off. When he went after them they showed fight and doubled back on them. He jerked out a big sheath knife and made a rake at one of them and slit one of his ears off, got his burro back over the trail and started on. The Chinaman went to town, swore out a warrant, which was showed in the hands of a constable who prepared himself with a gun and handcuffs and started out to arrest him. In due time they turned up at the jail, but the constable had the warrant and the constable's gun, and said, "You brought the son of a gun back, and when you want to arrest me again, send a man."

RIVALRY BETWEEN RIVERS

In the early days in Fresno county there was great rivalry between the citizens of the San Joaquin river and those of Upper Kings river, which was even carried into politics, although everybody belonged to the same party. In those days, horse racing was one of the principal sources of amusement, and also a sort of a game for those parties who had the best horses. At that time Bill Campbell was Indian agent on Kings river and he and his brother Ned owned a big dog colored race horse which in their own estimation was the best in the state. Among the San Joaquin crowd were a couple named Johnson, and to designate them they were called Big Dog Johnson, Little Dog Johnson, Pecosy Johnson, and Horse Johnson. The latter, being in view the cleaning up of the Kings river valley, and he knew he was a world beater also. In due time the parties met and a match was made to run at Conover's Ferry.

The day that the race came off Kings River was decided. All the men turned out and small droves of cattle and horses were driven over to bet when the money gave out. Pecosy Johnson was rather a bad horse to manage and they got into a row. He was so fast that he could run him, he laid his hand on his back and said, "As long as there is a hair that I'll be there"—and he was won the race and broke the wide Kings River crowd, many losing their saddle horses and having to walk home.

Some time afterwards, A. G. Anderson sent back to Kentucky and imported a fine horse, another world beater. As soon as the boys on the San Joaquin heard of it they went over to Nevada and got the fastest horse in the world, so they thought. And soon another match was made to run on the same track. The Kings River people imported a trainer called Jim Dudley and Billy Caldwell rode the Anderson horse. When the race was over, Kings River had all the money, cattle, horses and hogs and the San Joaquin boys walked.

In those early days about 1859 there came a man who is still a resident of Fresno county and is about 32 years old. All old settlers know him, a quiet, good citizen, who lives in the foothills near the Academy, Alfred Baird. He ran the old Smith's ferry when it was first established and settled on what was then called Whiskey flat, a short distance above the ferry. He was washed out of land and home by the flood of 1862.

LINCOLN VOTE LOST.
Mr. Baird was always a staunch Republican and at the election of 1860, he under some difficulties, went to the polls on Upper Kings river and voted for Abraham Lincoln for president and went home with the proud consciousness of a duty performed; but when the polls were closed and the result announced he was quite astonished to learn that there was not a Republican vote cast in the precinct. The vote for Lincoln had got lost in some way. In fact, those people who lived there at that time really lacked the ability to read a Republican vote.

In the early days of Fresno City, the mill on the site of what is now the Sperry mills was run by water and a canal known as the Mill ditch, used to carry the waste water from the mill, ran down Fresno street. This, in course of time, got to be a great nuisance, a receptacle for all kinds of slops, dead cats, etc., and when the water was not running, which often happened, it did not smell just like a bottle of cologne. People naturally kicked, and all kinds of ways were tried to abate the nuisance, but without avail, until the late W. T. Maupin was appointed health officer. He tried persuasion, coercion, and every other reasonable means to abate that nuisance—nothing doing. They were ready as soon as a move was made to do anything to run an injunction. So the old doctor quietly went among the people, got plenty of means, teams and shovels all ready, and one Sunday there was a mob of workers on the ditch early and before midnight the ditch was a thing of the past.

PATTERSON KILLING.
In the fall of 1864, Johnny Barker ran for constable in this district, and one day asked me to get into his buggy and go out to Central Colony where he was not acquainted and I was. I went with him, introduced him to all of the ladies and a few of the men, and whether it was his good looks or my eloquence, has been a matter of dispute between us ever since. However, in a precinct where there were only about a half dozen or so Democrats he carried the precinct by a handsome majority and made a good officer.

I have written this preliminary to the story that I started out to write, of the killing of Tom Patterson. One day after Barker became constable one of the Holy boys from Madera came over to Fresno with quite a sum of money in his pockets and went on a spree, and over on the west side displayed his cash. Sometime in the night he started over to this side, when Tom Patterson and a man by name of Moore followed and when near the railroad track knocked him in the head, rendering him unconscious. They then robbed him and Patterson placed him on the track near a freight train that was standing there. Moore, who afterwards turned state's evidence, said that he could not stand that and went back and pulled him off the track, where he was found, taken to a doctor and eventually recovered. Patterson got away and Moore was captured, and as I have stated, gave the whole thing away. He got on the same train as the man who had the money was sheriff of this county, and everyone was on the look-out for Patterson. Finally he was located in Santa Barbara, from descriptions sent out, and was arrested there. Barker went after him and when he was brought here it was thought for some reason not safe to keep him here, and he was quietly removed to Visalia, where an Oregon boat was put on him. But with all their precautions he broke jail and got away "free" and all. Somewhere near Goshute he got hold of some tools some way and sawed the "boat" off and from there went over to the west side and established a camp in the sage brush.

In some manner which I have never learned, Barker found out where he was and notified Meade, Johnny White and some others here and Parker of Visalia, and they went after him and when they got sight of him he was sitting down with his back to Meade and Barker and Barker called to him to surrender. Instead of obeying, he raised with a gun and was shot down. When brought in he had sixteen bullet holes in him.

FINED $50 FOR SLAP.

In September, 1872, a man named James Waters came into Millerton and hunted up Sheriff Ashman and said that he had slapped one Howard for calling him a liar. He was tried in due time before Judge Humble and found guilty and fined fifty dollars. Waters had the money all right, but said, "I am holding sheep for one dollar a day and I don't want to pay a fine if I don't board it out with the county, as they allow me two dollars per day and board."

On Saturday, September 7, 1872, some parties were fishing on the San Joaquin, among them were Alex. Kennedy, Sam Deane and others, and they had a Chinaman on the bank of the river, building on the end of the same where the Chinese occasionally put out the river. Kennedy immediately went on shore and saw a Chinaman who was down and was within arms of drowning. He had to get to his life.

As a matter of ancient history I make this except from the Fresno Evening Republican, 1872. It says: "It affords a much pleasanter to an established at Fresno city. Mr. R. H. Pennington has been appointed postmaster, an appointment singularly fortunate, as he is a clever and accomplished gentleman."

In September, 1872, Frank Deasy had a sheep camp on Dundee Creek and had sheep in the mountains east of here. A fence was set at the upper camp found that a bear was making depredations on the sheep and one night shot and wounded one and reported to Deasy, who started an Indian called Little Jim out to get the bear. The next day Dr. Graves, who was called to William N. Deasy, was across Little Jim, who had found the bear, but had been used up shooting. The doctor notified Deasy, but when they found the Indian he had gone to the "happy hunting ground," a merry to-day. He was only a few days old, but he gave us the best day.

In July, 1872, Huffy Thomas was deputy sheriff at Fresno, and about the 12th of the month a Mexican by the name of Rotane Garcia shot and killed another by the name of De-ancho Serrano at the old town of Las Huatas. The murderer made for the Coast range at Panadero. Thomas sent two men after him and they overtook him on the creek. When they got to the shore he was supposed to have been shot. Anyway, they found him right there, and brought his horse and gun back to Fresno. They were a style of doing business in those days, but no one just needed another party from my friend Sarah Brown's story, but she can't remember exactly, but she can remember that she saw a man who was a little better than the others, but she can't remember exactly. Well Sarah, as a household industry I much prefer knitting to crocheting, but no you can't knit with the crocheting work. You say that you to a little delicate about calling upon a gentleman in the evening, but that will be all right. Don't let that worry you a minute. I have a grand-daughter who is an A-N-O-I champion.

AN EDUCATED HORSE.
Nobly in Conway claims to have an educated horse, but if what Mr. J. C. Spivey says about his faithful steed is true, and he vouches the truth of his statement, he has a valuable horse. The standard of exhibition is high.

The story runs thus: Mr. Spivey has a Arabian stall and near a tank into which this water flows. Connected by pipes, however, he has a valve through which he lets the water from the well into his horse's trough. Last week, says Mr. Spivey, he noticed that somebody had been leaving the valve open, although the water to run in the yard. In order to correct this, he and others watched the appearance of the uneducated boys who were doing this. Last week, however, the problem was solved, and hereby hangs a tale.

Mr. Spivey says that his wife and another lady says that his approach the trough and finding the water, he liberally turn the valve and drink his fill, and then with the same deliberation close the valve. On being told of this strange occurrence, Mr. Spivey said that the next day he watched and the horse again opened the valve, but had turned it up so high that after repeated efforts was unable to shut off the water, and looked at him in such a searching attitude that he went and did it.

WHY GOV. WILSON LEFT BAR.

Says He Couldn't Be an Honest Lawyer and a Politician at the Same Time.

"From my boyhood," said Woodrow Wilson to Judge P. Marquess, who tells in Marquess' October of his interview with New Jersey's eminent jurist, "I have aimed at a public life. The reason I studied law was because, when I was a boy in the South, the law furnished the shortest path to public life. I gave it up, later, because I found I could not be an honest lawyer and a politician at the same time. At least, I did not know how to do it. I tried the next best thing, which was studying politics. I went back to school where I undertook to learn something of the facts of government. People think I was born a scholar, as a matter of fact, I was born a man of affairs."

NATURE'S LAVISH GIFTS and Man's Ingenuity and Industry

Make "The Land of Kerman" the Land of Prosperity

Nature has lavished gifts on the "Land of Kerman" that are superior to those of any part of Central California. With the most healthful climate in the world and one that is at the same time the best for ripening all sorts of fruits, grains and vegetables, and a soil that can not be surpassed, there is no reason why the "Land of Kerman" should not support an independent and happy population. If there were any doubt, it is cleared away by the fact that a happy and prosperous people DO live in the "Land of Kerman."

Such a wide variety of fruits can be raised in the "Land of Kerman" that it does not have to depend on any one industry. Oranges and lemons can be profitably raised because they ripen several weeks earlier than the oranges and lemons of the southern part of the state. This gives the growers the benefit of the early markets when prices are highest.

Figs can be raised, too, and grapes and peaches and apricots. Not only can they be raised, but these fruits are profitable. Indeed, peaches from Kerman command highest prices. Alfalfa is a very remunerative crop, as from 6 to 10 tons are harvested from an acre each year, and the price ranges from $8 up. There is an alfalfa meal factory that provides a market close at hand.

There are hundreds of families already in the "Land of Kerman" making a good living and paying for their farms. They are happy and prosperous and their farms are the proof of every assertion we make. They are the kind of people you will like for neighbors.

No newspaper advertisement can come anywhere near doing justice to this tract. It can only suggest a few of the possibilities. If you are interested, please write for literature that gives detailed and specific information about the "Land of Kerman," or call at the office and let us answer your questions.

BARON RUDI

The joyous Viennese operetta, which will be presented at the Barton next Sunday evening.

Mux Dill presents himself at the Barton tonight in the musical play in three acts, entitled "The Rich Mr. Hoggenheimer," with book and lyrics by this play and by Burton Smith, and the music is by Ludwig Engländer. Sam Bernard, the German comedian, won the title of the funniest man on the American stage when he was playing the role of "Piggy" Hoggenheimer. It was one of the most laughable creations of modern times, and he was criticized and his popularity was not confined entirely to New York. Hoggenheimer was a jay and a sure thing for three hours' laughter wherever the play went. The comedian made the name famous and it was conceded that the creation was the best he had ever made. The success of the play has now given Mr. Dill an opportunity to continue the delinquent character made so famous by the other. They have written a sequel to "The Girl from Kay's," showing "Piggy" Hoggenheimer as a benedict, the husband of the little milliner's assistant, the woman who was filled with the spirit of blamable, humorous adventures in the original play. While they have provided new surroundings for Hoggenheimer, new complications, new music, new songs and a new set of comic personages, they have not departed in the slightest from the lesson of the "Mr. Hoggenheimer of Kay's" days. Indeed if anything, the married Mr. Hoggenheimer is said to

Mr. Bill will have the support of an unusually fine company, of 50 people which includes a chorus of 30.

Sousa and His Band

It has been said that the music is not the only remarkable feature of the concert. The greatest success is due to the conductor himself, who is most interesting in his style. He begins quietly enough, though his direct, almost absolute, control of the orchestra is obvious. He attracts, at first, from the very first. But as he proceeds he assumes as many postures with his hands and arms as a general staff sergeant. At one time he is describing a circle with his hand in the air; at another, when encouraging a series of chords from the orchestra, he is shouting like a blacksmith, "Chord! Chord! Chord!" and drawing an imaginary loop. When he wants a crescendo, he works both arms at his sides as if unmanaging a pump, and thus helps the big sound along tremendously. At the close of the work, he bows with a flourish of the arm, as if he is feeling his head. And then he waves his baton around a much after the fashion of a man who is moving muscles without walking.

"The Country Boy"

Next Tuesday evening at the Barton-Harris theatre, Henry B. Harris will present Edgar Selwyn's successful American comedy, "The Country Boy," which comes here direct from five months at the Liberty theatre, New York, and two months at Powers' theatre, Chicago. The piece is in four acts and the action is of the present. The story concerns a young fellow from the country who goes to the city to make his name and fortune, but like many others who had preceded him, he finds that the desirable positions are not so plentiful.

Mirth, melody and song prevail at Teal's Theater this week and crowded houses have been in evidence at each performance to witness the mirth provokers Knight, Feilds, Avery and Teal are in their element in this show and Jack Chesbro as the Debonair Fleece Truck Tro is better than ever.

Graele, Wolf, Claire Davis and her petit sister Margaret have splendid parts and their song numbers all take several encores.

several degrees. The work this week has been better than ever; the girls working with unusual vim dancing themselves into the hearts of the big crowds from the rise to the fall of the curtain. Today's matinee and tonight will see the last of the Girl and the Jockey and no doubt will be witnessed by packed houses. Commencing with tomorrow night, Mr. Toots will give the club a new scenic Japanese production "The Isle of Flow-Top" positively the most gorgeous show ever attempted at popular prices. The scene is laid on a mythical island in the Chinese Sea and deals with the adventures of a shipwrecked dutchman who arrives in time to marry the princess who soon afterwards dies, and the dutchman is then informed of the laws of the island whereby the husband is always buried alive with the dead wife. Complications pile up one upon another until the poor fellow, the unfortunate man to evade the law, and happy ending wherein the princess comes to life. The comedy of the play is in the hands of Cash Knight, Fritz, and the other players. The play will be seen in the character of Izzy Cohen, the official undertaker to the king. Fields will portray the unfortunate German, and Averb will have the part of the Chinese king. King of the Pine Carrock will have a clever part in that of Nanki Poo, a Chinese maiden and friend of the Princess Kinooka, who will be played by Margaret Davis. The part of the prince of the island, the ex-lie Prince Itto, and Leonard Loehr, a new comer to the Teal Company will handle the character of Pip, the official doctor. "The scenery and the costumes are of the first class and will surpass anything ever seen in this city, given by a stock company.

ful. After several disappointments he becomes discouraged to the point where he is about to take his own life when he is brought to a realization that life in the south country town is the more preferable after all.

The real charm of the play, however, lies not so much in the plot as in the various characterizations of types which the author introduces in the several scenes. Particularly clever is the boarding house scene.

The cast has not undergone a single change. The sale of seats is now given.

The Campus

"When 'The Campus', the new musical comedy of college life by Walter De Leon, appears at the Barton next Thursday evening, the first opportunity accorded local play-goers of enjoying this record-breaking play will be presented. AUTHOR OF "THE COUNTRY BOY" GOT INSPIRATION FOR PLAY FROM THEATRICAL BOARDING HOUSE WHERE HE LIVED

Since the success of "The Country Boy," the biggest comedy hit of the year, which came to the National Opera House Tuesday, October 10th, late Selwyn, the author, has been asked so often by newspaper men and friends how he came to give such a remarkable touch of local color to the charming house scene which forms the second act of the play, and incidentally causes more laughter and genuine merriment than any scene staged on the stage, that it will be interesting to give a little history of the people and the motives that prompted Mr. Selwyn to write it.

"The Country Boy" first says the flight of day when Mr. Selwyn, a member of the famous Lamb Club in New York, was asked to prepare a speech portion of the band's gambols. He did not mind the sketch showed some of the "business" the theatrical profession is famous for in the legitimate theatre, but the cheap theatrical manner of the sketch was not to his taste. He laughed, and Mr. B. said he was pleased at the club that evening, and said to Mr. Selwyn that he thought the club was a fine one, and that it acted in this way, it would be the result that he suggested at the present season. "The Comedy Club" was chalked.

"And your superb artist to me," he replied. Mr. S. S. M. "I'll direct him to the chairman of the recording board."

Accordingly, when Robert Law, the scenic artist, called on Mr. Selwyn, he was sent to an address in West 13th street, New York.

"What you see there," he explained, "is what I saw when I wrote the play 'Copy H.' exactly."

Eight years ago, when a few West 13th street boarding house contents at an interesting assemblage of lodgers. In addition to Mr. Selwyn and his wife, Margaret Mayo, herself a well-known dramatist, some of the other faces, theatrical celebrities who lived there at that time, were the Earl of Darnley, Eugene Walter, Eleanor Roosevelt, Mrs. August Belmont, Max Hail, Midge Lane Cooke, and Jack Kenneth. The landlord was a famous character, and one day when Mr. Selwyn informed her that she had

Still, the greater part of the big 200,000 strong trade was Eugene Walter's. Walter, that was not in itself a clever name, being and trying to be Walter's name, but it was near enough to the name Mr. Walter's schoolmate had called him, and he was doing his best to work with the American people in a plain, desultory way. He had work and a reputation for some discretion. His tone of debate at the dining table had won him the respect and approval. They no longer

EGYPTIAN NATIONAL PAPERS OBJECT TO MISSIONARIES

Feeling Aroused By Efforts of American Christians.

Charges Made of Stirring Up Dissension and Kidnaping.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Nationalist press in Cairo is again raising a cry against the American Mission in Egypt, and is calling upon the government to repress by force the Christianizing of Moslem lands on the ground that Egypt is a Mohammedan country. El Mith, the official organ of the Nationalist party, accuses the missionaries of Christianizing Moslem lands and then concealing them from their parents. The journal describes the American Mission as "a nest of venom" wherever it goes and committing horrible crimes, separating sons from fathers, brothers from brothers, and kidnapping little children.

GREEK KING INVESTS HEAVILY IN DANISH LAND

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 7.—King George, known as the business monarch, has been making his annual visit to Denmark, where he spent some time in looking after his extensive interests. King George did not make his usual visit last year on account of troubles at home which demanded his attention.

The Greek king displayed his fine business acumen by investing in real estate holdings which promise, on account of their location, to increase enormously in value. His holdings here have already brought him a nice profit. The king is also interested in a vineyard here, and he sells his wine to local dealers and continental exporters.

DANES BEGIN TO GUARD PAINTINGS

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 7.—Following a discussion on the safety of art works in local galleries which resulted from the theft of "Mona Lisa," a reporter on a local paper abstracted a valuable Dutch painting from the Danish National Gallery. The picture was taken to the office of the paper, and although the manager of the gallery, informed over the telephone that a painting had been stolen from his collection, he reported that the guardians assured him that none was missing.

Four hours later the reporter returned the painting to the manager. The affair has caused much comment and the Ministry, which has charge of the gallery, has instituted an inquiry which is expected to lead to a plan for the better safeguarding of art treasures.

CAN ANYBODY HERE SAY GOETHE?

Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, German poet, who died in 1832, is the cause of more excitement at Oak Park than has stirred that village in years. The pronunciation of the German poet's name is in question. Residents of the usually quiet suburb are seen rushing about the streets waving their arms wildly in the air. Gotta, gotty, gaty, gatty, gahy, gahy—the mouths of Oak Parkers are constantly filled with such expressions. The situation is serious.

Charles Dingle, leading man and matinee idol at the Warrington theater is guilty. He started the whole thing in his daily rendition of lines in "The Marriage of William Asher" he pronounced Goethe "gotta."

His daily "gotta" got on the nerves of Oak Park's leading dramatic and fine art critic, Frank H. Bagley. Mr. Bagley remonstrated with the actor man on the pronunciation.

"Goethe, who you call gotta, should be gottah," wrote the critic. With that the residents of the suburb plunged into a discussion of the pronunciation which is having a great effect over the world.

J. C. Hanna, high school principal, maintains expression of the word should sound "gahy." Louis E. Yager, lawyer, says "gotta," upholding the actor. W. A. Hutchinson, the postmaster, insists there is only one way and that is "gahy." From the Chicago Record-Herald.

IT MIXES UP THE FAMILY

Harvey Yauky, a wealthy farmer living near here, is trying to figure what kin he is to his wife. This comes about through the issuance of a marriage license to the father of Mr. Yauky, Jacob Yauky, and Mrs. Jane Doctor, mother of Mrs. Harvey Yauky. It is simply a case of Harvey Yauky's father, marrying Harvey Yauky's mother-in-law.

Yauky figures that his wife is his step-sister, that her father is his father-in-law, and Mrs. Harvey Yauky's mother is her mother-in-law. Yauky's mother-in-law is also his step-mother, and Mrs. Yauky's stepfather is likewise her father-in-law. New Castle (Ind.) Dispatch to New York Herald.

SCOTCH GENOSITY.

Rabbie met a neighbor, who was smoking some fine fragrant tobacco and he by his son in America. He took out his own pipe ostentatiously. "Ha, you a match, Sandie?" he queried.

The match was forthcoming—but nothing more.

"I do believe," said Rabbie, "I ha' left me tobacco to home."

"Then," said Sandie, after a silence, "Ye might as well gie me back me match." From Success Magazine.

GOODENOUGH ISLAND CANNIBALS TO BE STUDIED

Oxford University Is Sending Expedition to the South Seas.

No Explorers Have Ever Returned From Interior of Strange Land.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—An expedition has set out from Oxford University with its objective a cannibal island in the South Seas, where it expects to spend a year in studying the habits of the natives.

The party of scientists is headed by David James, the anthropological expert of Balliol College. The explorers will locate on Goodenough Island, which is situated in the extreme southeastern corner of British New Guinea. Little is known of the interior of this island, but it has been asserted that cannibalism is practiced there on an extensive scale.

Occasionally government officials pay a visit to the island, but being unwilling to provide the natives with a banquet, wisely confine his investigations to the coast-line. For this reason the interior remains unexplored. One or two attempts have been made to map the island, but the explorers have never returned.

Goodenough Island, which is of volcanic formation, is believed to be the highest island of its size in the world. It is forty miles long and thirty miles across, and its highest mountain extends 5,000 feet above sea level.

HISTORICAL COSTUMES FOR LONDON MUSEUM

Coronation Robes of Five Sovereigns Among Collection.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Among the exhibits for the new London Museum classified last month were the historical costume collection which almost fell into the hands of the Metropolitan Museum of New York. This magnificent exhibit has for its nucleus the splendid Stangor-Lucas collection for which the authorities on the American institution have been negotiating. The series comprises three or four hundred costumes dating from the fourteenth century to the present day.

Among the costumes are the coronation robes of five sovereigns: Queen Victoria, Queen Alexandra, Queen Mary, King Edward VII, George V, The Elizabethan and Jacobean periods are marked by some exquisite costumes and the Commonwealth is recalled by a number of beautiful silver-embroidered leather coats.

The classifying is being done by Guy Laking, the King's Armourer at Kensington Palace, in the room in which the coronation robes of George V. The Queen and of smaller and the classifiers are hoping that all the robes may be of old age. The coronation robes of the new monarch, which were the idea of King George and for which he has granted the use of Kensington Palace, is part of a Roman gallery, the only remains of these ancient ships known to exist. The remains were found under several feet of Thames mud, when excavations were made for the new county council hall. The timbers are of oak which had swollen immensely from centuries of immersion in the mud, but which shrank when exposed to the air. It is expected that the King will open the museum in October.

MAETERLINCK AS CHAUFFEUR

Timid Poet Will Drive Mile. Leblanc's Louis XV. Car.

All the artists and writers are cast by amused by the report that Maurice Maeterlinck will disguise himself as a chauffeur when he accompanies his wife, Mile. Maeterlinck, to Boston this winter.

Naturally modest and retiring, the author of "The Blue Bird," "Beatrice," and "Moussa Vanna" will pose as a chauffeur in the hope of remaining unknown and of escaping sensational publicity and American reporters, whom he fears.

Georgette Leblanc, who will sing in "Beatrice" and "Moussa Vanna," will take to American audiences which is regarded as the smoking touch. The motor car is unique. It is in the style of Louis XV, its interior is lined with pink satin like a boudoir. The wife suggests that while it would be an anachronism, Maeterlinck should wear the costume of a chauffeur of the same period.

But Paris doubts if Maeterlinck will carry out the purpose ascribed to him. The universal opinion is he will be recognized even if he shaves off his profuse hair and wears huge black goggles in the attempt to hide his dramatic expression.

His charming wife will not protest even if he wishes to disguise himself as a licker, one of the rules. Mile. Leblanc has laid down for the conduct of wives is:

"Speak only in agreement; disagreement is best expressed with the eyes."

And others are:

"When your husband is in bad temper don't develop similar symptoms; when he is merry imitate him unflinchingly."

"If he has the gout, don't insist on walking."

"Don't fondle him before meal time. Kisses to a hungry man are as soap bubbles to a parched throat."

AMERICAN LIMPET INVADES BEDS OF ENGLISH OYSTERS

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Another American invasion is now stirring England. The Kent and Essex Sea Fisheries Commission reports that the American limpet is threatening the oyster industry.

An expert of the Board of Agriculture states that on the southeast coast a limpet of a species hitherto unknown to British waters has appeared, and he declares that the invader must have been imported from America where it flourishes in and near oyster beds.

As American oyster growers have no dread of the limpet, the expert was asked why it was feared here. He explained that for the short time it has been here the limpet has spread with extraordinary rapidity, and there has been a slight decrease in oysters. It has therefore been suggested that in its new environment the limpet uses the same food as the oyster and so starves that limpet.

The possibility of the limpet smothering young oysters by its clinging habits is also suggested. But aside from the danger to the oyster from the invasion of the limpet, scientists are interested in the limpet because shell fish as a rule are not at all migratory. Natural causes have fixed the habitat of each. It is believed that the limpet was brought here by the oyster importers, who imported new varieties of American oysters and concern is now felt that the least valuable will survive the struggle for existence. It is believed that the limpet came over in the form of spaw, as no one would deliberately plant them with oysters, and the agitation against the limpet may result in restrictions on the importation of American oysters for planting.

DENMARK ENJOYS ABUNDANT HARVEST

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 7.—According to all reports the harvest of 1911 in Denmark will surpass all records since 1868. Not in forty-three years has weather labor and other conditions proven so auspicious to the farmer, and he reports when the agricultural statistics point to an ideal harvest, will refer to 1911. There is only one discordant note, that of the tramp and grass growers who have suffered on account of the long drought.

It was feared that labor would be scarce, but the employment agencies did their work so well that no shortage was felt, and with the exception of the large farms, harvest was completed within three weeks.

CONSTANTINE BRUN TO RETURN TO AMERICA

DENMARK EXPECTS INDIES ISLES TO BEGIN GROWTH

Opening of Panama Canal Counted Upon to Aid Population.

Government Is Slow to Extend Concessions in Islands.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 7.—It is hoped here that the decline in the population of the Danish West Indies, which has continued since 1810, may be ended by the opening of the Panama Canal. In 1810 there were 41,000 people on the islands, and by 1870 the number was reduced to 25,000. Ten years ago the Danish West Indies reported a population of 26,000 and the number today is given at 27,100. Of this number, St. John has 10,750 and St. John a little over 500.

That the feeling here that the opening of the canal will increase the population is shared abroad, is indicated by the efforts of the Royal Mail Packet Company of London to secure from the Danish government an extension of the dock privileges which it enjoys in St. Thomas. To the representative of the company now here, the government has given only a vague answer, saying that no decision would be made within a year or eighteen months. It is understood that the government wishes a much larger dock than the present Royal Mail landing to accommodate the large steamships before the opening of the canal, in the hope that a heavy traffic will be attracted to St. Thomas.

HISTORY OF LEGAL PROCEEDINGS TO FASTEN LOS ANGELES TIMES HORROR ON M'NAMARA BROTHERS

How a Main Spring Wound Once Too Tight Laid Foundation for Prosecution for Score of Murders By Dynamite.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 7.—A clock key turned one time too many, a main spring wound too tight are according to the contention of the prosecution, the trifles responsible for the fact that John J. McNamara and his brother James are about to be tried here on the charge of having murdered nineteen men. On Wednesday next—eleven days more than a year after the disaster in which a score of victims were slain—these two men must appear in Department Nine of the County Superior Court to defend themselves against the accusation that they caused the destruction of the Los Angeles "Times" building on the morning of October 3, 1910.

A web of what the prosecution regards as evidence has been spun around the two brothers, one a national labor leader and the other a worker in the ranks, and will be presented to the jury. Clarence S. Barron and the other attorney engaged in the defense of the McNamaras, however, are confident that they will be able to read asunder the case of the prosecution, and that their clients will walk forth free men.

The bomb that did not explode and which was found beside the house of Felix Zechendelaar, an official of the Los Angeles Merchants and Manufacturers Association, has supplied the clue that has solved, at least to the satisfaction of the prosecution, the mystery of how the building of the Los Angeles "Times" was destroyed. The clue is traced back to the McNamara brothers through a chain of alleged circumstances and facts. The case of the State, however, has been described by one of the attorneys for the defense as "a flimsy fabric of circumstances," and nothing so far has developed to show that the prosecution has any direct evidence to prove that James B. McNamara set the bombs at "The Times" building, and that John J. McNamara, brother of James, was the master conspirator, and his brother, James, his chief instrument.

Nevertheless, while awaiting the final outcome of the trial, the attorneys for the McNamaras and the prisoners themselves expect a long, hard battle before they are freed of the charge of having destroyed "The Times" building and slain nineteen men. John J. McNamara says there is not the slightest vestige of fear of the outcome in his mind, and the attorneys representing him and his brother James assert that when the prisoners, on Wednesday, catch the first free glimpse of the sky they have had for months, it will be only a foretaste of the liberty to come after weeks of fierce legal strife which will end, they believe, before them.

The prisoners have the law's presumption in their favor, and they are supremely confident that the jury yet to be chosen will vindicate that presumption by declaring them innocent.

INTERNAL MACHINE.

The ruins of "The Times" building were still emitting clouds of smoke the industrial strife between union and non-union men on the morning of October 3, when the throng of spectators were given the additional news that an internal machine had been found under a dinner window at the home of Felix Zechendelaar, who, as secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, had been active in an open shop campaign in this city. From the scene a few minutes later, a crowd of men went to the place where the machine had been found, and there, in a rooming house, they found a clock mechanism, which, when it was set in motion, exploded, leaving nothing but a hole in the wall of a room opposite the place where it had been found. But the Zechendelaar family, with its clock spring wound too tight, was not the only one to be found in the rooming house. A policeman on duty who was conducting the clockwork and the exploding cap, and with its power for him thus partially destroyed, it was taken to police headquarters.

It was a heavy charge of "highly per cent gelatin," an explosive of the most destructive power of which dynamite and seldom used. This gelatin bore the label of a San Francisco powder company, detectives hurried northward to the north, while the highly wound clock mechanism remained at headquarters to be examined by the authorities, a colossal criminal conspiracy ramifying throughout the country.

The burden of proof against the McNamara brothers lies on the State, and its far as the case has developed, the prosecution apparently must rely, aside from expert testimony, upon four main points of reported fact to prove that James B. McNamara, as the instigator, and John J. McNamara, as the directing force of a conspiracy, were responsible for the destruction of "The Times" building and the deaths of the victims.

PRINCIPAL FACTS.

The alleged fact that James B. McNamara was in San Francisco at the time the Los Angeles "Times" building was destroyed, and that he was in possession of a large quantity of dynamite, was the first point of the prosecution.

The alleged fact that he was in Los Angeles, a few hours before the blowing up of "The Times" building, was the second point.

That he actually set the bomb which caused the disaster, and likewise planted the bombs at the homes of Gen. Otis and Felix Zechendelaar, and that he conspired the crime at the hotel and under the direction of John J. McNamara, was the third point.

A day or two after the disaster the detectives working in San Francisco were told that three men who gave the names of Bryson, Morris and Leonard had purchased, on September 28, 1910, 1,000 pounds of "high per cent gelatin" from the company whose label was on the dynamite in the Zechendelaar bomb. The two women were then brought into the case, Mrs. Della Lavie and Mrs. D. H. Ingersoll, to whom the men were known as J. B. Price, Milton A. Schmidt and David Kaplan.

Mrs. Lavie was arrested on a warrant charging her with conspiracy to destroy the Los Angeles "Times" building, but she was released after a few days. Mrs. Ingersoll was later when the McNamara and McNamara arrived from the east in the custody of officers, and she was at James McNamara's home, the J. B. Price she had known.

John J. McNamara and McNamara, the said she had never seen, and this, coupled with McNamara's sworn statement that he was not with James McNamara at the time the explosion took place, was enough to bring out the fact that although John J. McNamara is charged with the crime, the Los Angeles "Times" building was destroyed by only one of the men alleged to have actually set the bomb which caused the disaster. The two alleged confederates, Schmidt and Kaplan, are still the objects of a man hunt that outrages the world.

HIDDEN IN SAN FRANCISCO.

In the meantime William J. Burns, the former government secret service man, who had been charged in the San Francisco graft cases, was engaged by George Alexander, Mayor of Los Angeles, on behalf of the city, to run down the criminals. Burns examined the spring mechanism at police headquarters, reported to Mayor Alexander, telegraphed for one of his men, an expert on bombs, to come to the coast and then went west. While he was gone the San Francisco detectives discovered on October 15 a cache of 500 pounds of dynamite in a house at South San Francisco. All of this bore the powder company's label "Highly Per cent Gelatin," and was identified as part of the Price purchase.

What became of the rest, then, was the question, and the activities of the detectives along this line of investigation were continued.

An investigating committee, under General J. S. Brown, a retired army officer, reported to Mayor Alexander, October 2, that the explosion had been caused by nitroglycerine or similar high explosives. But a committee named by the State Building Trades Council, then in session in Los Angeles, reported that "The Times" building had been blown up by gas. John Harrington, an attorney who was with Mr. Burns in the McNamara defense, questioned before the coroner's jury two operators who were in "The Times" telegraph room at the time of the explosion, and they testified that a strong odor of gas led them to believe that gas had wrecked the building. Afterward Harrington declared that the cause of the explosion would be used by the defense to combat the dynamite theory of the prosecution.

Judge Walter Hordwell, of the Superior Court, had by this time empaneled a special grand jury. After 100 days of investigation, during which 114 witnesses, mostly from San Francisco, were examined, the grand jury reported its conclusion that dynamiters had blown up "The Times" building, and indicted Price, Schmidt and Kaplan for the alleged crime. This was on January 8.

During these months nothing was heard from Detective Burns by anyone excepting Mayor Alexander, who was called on from time to time to supply funds from the $25,000 set aside by the city council to finance the investigation. Given the idea by the clockwork mechanism of the Zechendelaar bomb, the detective and his assistants went to work on the theory that the men responsible for a series of crimes in the east, in which structural steel work had been done by members of the "National Erectors' Association," an open-shop organization, had been destroyed, had likewise prepared "The Times" horror.

HANDFUL OF SAWDUST.

Burns had been engaged upon the investigation of the dynamite outrages in the east for a month before "The Times" building was blown up. And here again a trivial thing proved of the greatest importance. A handful of sawdust, of peculiar color and cut found in a box near another unexploded bomb which was picked up after an explosion in the railroad yards at East Peoria, Ill., led to the discovery that a man named J. W. McGraw had purchased a large quantity of nitroglycerine recently for use in whom he said was G. W. Clark, of Indianapolis. McGraw was shadowed. In December he disappeared from his haunts, and on Christmas day Los Angeles received another shock. The Llewellyn Iron Works, one of a number of concerns involved in controversy with the striking union, was partially wrecked by an explosion. Telling of his work afterward, Burns said his men followed McGraw to his home in Chicago, and there learned that his real name was McNamara. McNamara confessed later that it was he who had blown up the Llewellyn plant.

McNamara went to Kansas, Mo., and the detectives, constantly following saw him meet a man who resembled the description of J. B. Price, accused of "The Times" outrage. This man proved to be James B. McNamara, brother of the secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. McNamara and McNamara met again in Toledo on April 11, and on April 12, they were arrested in Detroit.

The two prisoners were hurried from the Michigan City to a hiding place in Chicago, and upon telegraphic advice from Burns, the grand jury in Los Angeles returned arrest warrants against McNamara and the McNamara brothers. Requisition and extradition papers were obtained with the utmost secrecy from Governor Hiram Johnson at Sacramento, and Assistant District Attorney W. Joseph Ford of Los Angeles, with Detective James Hesse, hurried to Indianapolis. Finding James in his new hideout on April 22, they went straight to the office of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Association, and arrested John J. McNamara.

OFF TO LOS ANGELES.

In an hour of the personalities of arraigning him before a justice and filing extradition papers were gone through, and McNamara was on his way to Los Angeles.

The news of his arrest was flashed to the waiting Burns lieutenants in Chicago, and with equally feverish haste James B. McNamara and McNamara started on their transcontinental journey to prison, the two parties met in Dodge, Kan., and arrived here together April 26.

Ford remained in Indianapolis and was arrested on the charge of having kidnapped John J. McNamara. Burns and Hesse were afterward indicted on the same charge, and both were held in $10,000 bail.

Efforts were then made by Burns and his men to identify their prisoners, the two McNamaras and McNamara, with the three men, Bryson, Morris and Leonard, who purchased the 1,000 pounds of dynamite in San Francisco. McNamara was taken before the grand jury on May 4 and tendered a sworn statement. What he told the grand jury came out on July 18 when the attorneys for the defense, to save Mrs. McNamara from being adjudged in contempt for having refused to answer questions in the grand jury room, used a certified copy of his alleged confession.

In this "confession" McNamara declared he had come to California to destroy the auxiliary newspaper plant of "The Times," but finding it guarded blew up the Llewellyn works instead. He asserted he first met James B. McNamara in the office of John J. McNamara in Indianapolis in the summer

"Hohenlinden"

(Thomas Campbell.)
On Linden, when the sun was low,
All bloodless lay the untrodden snow,
And dark as winter was the flow
Of her, rolling rapidly.

But Linden saw another sight,
When the drum beat, at dead of night,
For the light of death to fight
The darkness of her slumber.

By torch and trumpet host arrayed,
Each horseman drew his battle blade,
And furious very charger neighed
To join the dreadful revel.

Then shook the hills with thunder
Then rushed the steel to battle driven,
And louder than the bolts of Heaven,
For flashed the red artillery.

But redder yet that light shall glow
On Linden's hills of stained snow,
And blonder yet the torrent flow
Of her, rolling rapidly.

'Tis morn; but scarce yon level sun
Can pierce the war-clouds, rolling dun,
Where furious Frank and fiery Hun
Shout in their sulphurous canopy.

The combat rages on, the brave,
Who rush to glory, or the grave,
Wave, Munich, all thy banners wave,
And charge with all thy chivalry!

Great, low shall part where many meet;
The snow shall be their winding sheet,
And every turf beneath their feet
Shall be a soldier's sepulchre.

Thomas Campbell, the Scottish poet, has given to English literature a cast of fine verse. Although most of it is intended for the student, and by him read most exclusively in our day, he has written a number of short poems which belong to the fireside, notable among which are "Hohenlinden,"

"Lockhart's Warning," "The Battle of the Marston," and many similar poems mostly expressing the military spirit.

When Campbell was a schoolboy in his native country he had a great longing to go to Germany. "There he was able to accomplish while he was yet a young man but over-ruled with literary tastes. At Hamburg the sight of the many French exiles inspired him to write that touching lament, 'The Exiles of Elbe.' During this journey also he wrote 'The Marchioness of Eglar,' which he sent from Munich to Linz he witnessed from the walls of a convent the bloody battle of Hohenlinden, and saw the triumphant French cavalry under Moreau enter the nearest town, wiping their bloody swords on their horses' manes. His lyric has captured the conflict forever. 'John Lyden,' says Sir Walter Scott, 'introduced me to Tom Campbell. They afterward quarreled. When I repeated 'Hohenlinden' to Leyden, he said: 'dash it, man, tell the fellow I hate him; but, dash him, he has written the finest verses that have been published these fifty years. I and mine regard him as a poet, and I hope his successors will be for ever.' 'John Lyden' that I detest him, but I know the value of his critical appreciation."

Scott knew "Hohenlinden" by heart, and when Sir Walter died at Murray's in 1839 he repeated at the table, as Willie tells me, Campbell's poems of "Hohenlinden" and "Lockhart."

From early youth Campbell showed symptoms of a poetical brain. They were not countenanced, but instead were rebuffed by his father. Many a sheet of nonsense paper I beside me, said the poet, writing in 1781: "Inasmuch that when my father comes into my room he tells me I would be much better reading Locke than scribbling."

Let high philosophy control
The nobler passions of the soul.
The personal account which Campbell gave of the battle of Hohenlinden and at Lugoistadt—both of which he witnessed—during the action and the other very soon after, ward appears to have often confided in—Memories of Campbell with that of Hohenlinden. "I well remember," says a friend of the poet, "his mentioning, on his return to Edinburgh, that he was on the battle field the day after the battle and how deeply he was affected by the whole scene. It is related in the same memoir: 'From the walls of a convent he commanded part of the field of Hohenlinden during the sanguinary contest, and proceeded afterward in the track of Moreau's army over the scene of combat. This important sight produced the celebrated 'Battle of Hohenlinden.' This is a mistake, for at the time of the battle the poet was on the Elbe."

An intimate of the poet, who wrote "The Life and Letters of Thomas Campbell," says: "I never heard him describe the field of Hohenlinden; although he visited Munich at the time alleged when 'coming events cast their shadows before'—he may have taken cursory survey of the village, where the armistice was signed on the twenty-eighth of September, 1805, and where, two months later, the Austrians were completely routed. But until the battle was fought the curious to gratify the curiosity of strangers."

"Hohenlinden" as well as "Lockhart," were written two years after the battle, upon the poet's return to Edinburgh. He was not printed until 1803, in a volume which he dedicated to Dr. Alison. The dedication read as follows: "To the Reverend Archibald Alison, prebendary of Salisbury, etc., these two poems are inscribed by his most respectful friend, the author."

Upon one occasion a brother of his biographer said to Campbell: "I know that you poets think yourselves entitled to embellish your effusions with that sublime figure of rhetoric called 'hyperbole,' but surely you exceed all license when you say:—

For flashed their red artillery!"

"If the 'flash' was so loud what must have been the report?" Campbell looked at it taken back, not knowing whether to consider the criticism as intended for joke or earnest; but, presently retorting the banter he replied: "If you understood grammatical construction, you could not have made that remark. Put it into prose, and how did it read? 'Their red artillery, louder than the bolts of Heaven, flashed for.' Very good; but here is something else, said I, 'which proves that you are at least well skilled in the figures of speech.' If you have decided against it, as I own you have, against that of hyperbole:—

"Then shook the hills with thunder
Then rushed the steel to battle driven!"

"Oh, what a falling off was there!"

"How could I help it?" replied the poet, somewhat meekly. "The poem began by a general discharge of artillery along the whole line; and then amidst the obscurity of the smoke, the cavalry made their attack on the broken ranks of the enemy."

"Well parried," was the reply, "but I have, however, the next battle you describe will not take place in such a dilemma. But as I am in a humor for criticizing you must kindly bear with me, for I have not yet done. Were Milton alive, I think he might accuse you of theft."

"Wave, Munich! all thy banners wave!"

"Oh, I know to what you allude, interrupted he, taking me up rather sharply:

"Wave! Your tops, ye pines!—in sign of worship wave!"

"But do you call that a fault?" "I saw the fire rising; and in the thoughtless buoyancy of my spirits, I took a wayward pleasure in adding another figure to it. 'Let that pine, said I, 'but pray tell me, if your verses were buried, 'Get down, wave, and what was the side of the 'turf' that covered them; for you say:—

"And every turf beneath his feet
Shall be a soldier's sepulchre!"

"I can stand this no longer," cried the badgered poet, and starting to his feet, made towards the door, adding, "Oh, ye poor poets! what have we to endure!"

Another critic of the poet makes the following comment: "Campbell, in his 'Hohenlinden,' was guilty of what we may perhaps term the puerility of ending every stanza with a tri-syllable, as 'rainily,' 'scenery,' etc. In which the last syllable of all is 'shall be a soldier's sepulchre.'"

Here there is no rhyme, and as we may learn from his friend Keble, it seems to have been a continual source of trouble to the poet. He had only to tremble and read: "A soldier's sepulchre shall be; and there would have been rhyme, cadence and everything but the aforesaid puerility."

HISTORY OF LEGAL PROCEEDINGS ON LOS ANGELES TIMES HORROR

days she pitted her wife against those of the deputy prosecutor, designated to testify for her.

On the second day of the trial for the prosecution brought McManis over from the jail and presented his wife with him. She contradicted the interview, screaming a hysterical. Subsequently McManis, in the presence of Burns, deposed on the witness stand, and reported that the defense was using his wife to induce him to deny his testimony, but that he would stick to the prosecution. He also declared that he was not permitted to see his child because he would not change sides.

With Mr. Burton's arrival at the place for the defense with began. The time for the murder indictment was deferred until July 6, but on that date instead of entering pleas Mr. Burton, backed by Attorney Joseph Scott, Cyrus McManis and his wife, who had been retained with Harman to assist him, assailed the jurisdiction of Judge Bordwell to try the case. This attack was based on the alleged fact that John J. McManis had been illegally taken out of Indiana. When this failed, they entered a motion to quash the indictment, and when this motion was denied, a bill of exception was filed as a ground work for an appeal should such become necessary, was filed.

The pleas were then made "not guilty" to each of the nineteen charges—and the trial was set for October 11. On certain points relative to the presence of James McManis in California, the evidence of the prosecution is believed to consist mainly of signatures on the registers of hotels where Brice was a guest in San Francisco, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Handwriting experts therefore will be prominent among the experts called in the trial.

It is believed here that three lines of defense are open, namely: To establish an alibi, by proving that James B. McManis, the only one of the prisoners whom it is alleged actually placed the bombs in Los Angeles, was not here at the time of the disaster.

Or to achieve the same result by leaving the burden of proof upon the state, and then demonstrating to the jury that the prosecution had not proved that James B. McManis was in Los Angeles on or about October 1, 1910.

Or to prove that the destruction of "The Times" building was not caused by dynamite but by the huge volume of gas used for heating the metal in the linotype machines of the newspaper.

The latter apparently is the line the defense has chosen, and here will be the battle ground of the experts. Every expert, the prosecution calls upon to testify in support of the dynamite theory, the defense will have one to do battle toward establishing the belief that gas was responsible for the disaster.

For weeks, it is anticipated, the legal struggle will be waged upon this point. Every day will be confronted by a mass of figures, theories and facts concerning the characteristics of dynamite and gas.

And at the end, when the exhibits of bombs, clock work internal machines and dynamite sticks, now stored in a magazine for use in the desert, have been shown, and the whole story of the tragedy unfolded, the fate of the McManis brothers, according to students on both sides of the case, will depend upon the jury's answer to the question: "Was it dynamite or gas?"

CRUELTY TO DOGFISH.

A fisherman from Montauk Point was telling his friends of catching a huge dogfish that had a most abnormal skull. The angler operated on his ugly and worthless catch, and found in the skull all that was left of a once strong rubber band. Evidently when that big dogfish was little some angler who had fished up for cod or other bottom fish had caught the dog and angrily snapped the band around its gills and turned it loose, expecting the tortured thing would die.

That recalled the story of how some fishermen not so gentle and humane as the rolling angler treat the poor little pestiferous dogfishes when they are caught. Generally there is an empty beer bottle handy, and this is tightly corked and tied to the tail of the fish, which is thrown back into the sea. It goes to the bottom of course, but the steady pull of the air-filled bottle finally proves too much for its strength, and it comes welching up, all first, only to go down again and repeat the performance until the poor thing dies. Frequently, when there is no beer bottle to be had, a piece of wood will do just as well, or just as ill.—New York Press.

When all the sands of night are run,
And dim the star be slow degrees,
When over Tahter mounts the sun

Above the azure Syrian air,
Somehow at heart I do not feel

I have stood on Jebel Sunnin looking Toward the tidelands sea;
I have gazed in Karak Moab from
The glades of Gilead;
I have trod the gorge of Petra where
The ancient wonders be.

I have rested by the waters filling
Clear from Ras-el-Ain;
I have lingered where the sunrise
Sweeps the width of Amra's plain,
I have seen the Syrian mother ride
The white wrath of the rain.

I have watched the pink flamingoes
When old Nile's torrents pour,
But give me at shut of twilight, when
All wanderings are o'er
And the vesper star be lighted, just
Her fair face at the door!

THE HEART OF THE CITRUS BELT

The fruit industry is one of the most profitable in California. Especially is this true of the raising of citrus fruits. Lands that are adapted to the culture of oranges and lemons are rapidly all being taken. It is limited in extent and the demand is great. That means that the prices will advance constantly and that desirable lands will be harder and harder to get.

Not only can oranges and lemons be raised that will ripen several weeks earlier than those of Southern California, thus commanding the highest prices, but figs, grapes and similar fruits in this section are equal to any in the state. The McCoon-Kellogg Tract is 9 miles from Fresno and 2 1/2 miles from Clovis. The land is being sold at $125 and $150 an acre and plenty of time is allowed in making payments. HANDS WOULD CRACK
OPEN AND BLEED

Blisters Formed, Skin Scaled Off, and Flesh Burned and Itched
Dreadfully. Healed by Less Than
One Cake of Cuticura Soap and
One Box of Cuticura Ointment.

"About two months ago my hands started to crack open and bleed, the skin would scale off, and the good flesh would burn and itch dreadfully. When my hands first started to get so, there were small blisters like water blisters which formed. They itched dreadfully, it just seemed as though I could tear the skin all off. I would scratch them and
the skin would peel off, and the flesh would be all red and crack open and bleed. It worried me very much, as I had never had anything like this before. I was so afraid I would have to give up my employment.

"I consulted my doctor, and he said he didn't think it would amount to anything.
But it kept getting worse. One day I saw a piece in one of the papers about a lady who had the same trouble with her hands. She had used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and was cured. I decided to try them, and my hands were all healed before I had used one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment. I am truly thankful for the good results from the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, for thanks to them I was cured, and did not have to lose a day from work. I have had no return of the skin trouble." (Signed) Mrs.

A LONG-FELT WANT.

"Would make me glad
If we but had
A more elastic currency.
The kind we've got
It stretches not—
At least it stretches not for me.

Give us a "bit"
So made that it
Will be so full of tensile oil
That when we slip
It as a tip
We'll duly gain from the recoil.

A rubber dime
At luncheon-time
If it would stretch to quarter size
Would suit my whim
Beneath a grin
Head-walter's avaricious eyes.

Give us a five
That's so alive,
So springy and resilient,
That when we lend
It's a friend,
It will return whence it has went!

A silver ounce
So full of bounce
That it will make a dollar shy
Mount high enough
To pay for stuff
A silver dollar ought to buy.

And so I say,
"Hip-hip-hurray
For him who'll take our treasury,
And give us soon
That needed boon,
A more elastic currency!"—Jack Kendrick Bangs, in the Century.

BEATING THE DUTCH.

It beats the Dutch how very much
Our horse meat is in favor;
Praps in better they're eating beef,
The Dutch enjoy its flavor.
And how, despite excessive price,
They think old-Dolbin rather nice.

The man whose wood made nutmegs good,
Whose rubbings made smoking,
Who pained with ease the three trained pigs

"But which we're always joking—
A tip he, by great good rubed,
If we believe the Dutch we're fooled.

"The Dutch are wise!" some fellow cries,
But our belief is shaken,
Since now they eat of Yankee meat
From streetcar stables taken;
This just a case of gentle touch
(This horse meat tick) it beats the Dutch!—From the New York Tribune.

JAPANESE BELLS.

Tinkle, tinkle, tinkle
In the breeze all day,
Tins of thinnest crystal,
Colored bright and gay,
Hanging on the doorway,
Every tinkle tells
Some enchanting legend,
Fairy bells.

Once they played the fancy
Of Usui Sen
In blossom-shaded
Garden in Japan,
Western trade and traffic
Now around them swirls,
Full their sweetly jingle,
Allen bells.

Twinkle, twinkle, twinkle,
Scintillate and swing,
Shake and sway, and sparkle,
"Tinkle and ring,
Out of splintered rainbows
Weaving magic spells,
Listen to their music,
Memory bells,

Times.

THE BILLS.

Here's the postman with the bills,
Monthly bills!
At his coming how my solar plexus thrills!
How it trembles, trembles, trembles
With a kind of quaking fright
As the missives he assembles
(While my tragic face resembles
A storm-threatened, starless night)
Seem to climb, climb, climb,
To an altitude sublime,
Heaping till they make a ghostly range of frigid-looking hills
Of the bills, bills, bills, bills,
Bills, bills, bills—
Heart-distressing, soul-depressing, unpaid bills!

Here are yellow wedding bills—
Golden bills!
What a world of weariness their quantity instills!

Though they're reminiscent, quite,
Of a time of pure delight,
Now they make me muddle note,
And all in vain,
That I must have been the goat
When those turtle-doves were married
—do they float—
Over my pain?

Oh, these bills are bitter pills:
What a juicy bank account their liquidation kills!

How it chills!
How it spills!
Into bill collectors' tills
While those endless checks I'm drawing.

Paying bills, bills, bills,
Paying bills, bills, bills, bills,
Bills, bills, bills—
As the color keeps retreating from my eyes!

FERRIS GIVEN $1.00
IN $1400 SUIT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—Obeying an order of court, Douglas White, a railroad official, paid $1 today to Dick Ferris, former candidate for lieutenant-governor. The dollar bill represented the verdict obtained by Ferris in a suit for $1400 instituted against White, who acted as Ferris' campaign manager in the primary preceding the last state election.
Ferris said running for office had cost him $500, and the dollar bill returned by White today was all he got out of it.

ON QUARLEY DOWN.

On Quarley Down, on Quarley Down
The trees grow straight, the trees grow tall,
And there the Romans set their camp,
And girdled it with moat and wall.

On Quarley Down, on Quarley Down
A man may see three countries lie,
But never an eagle standard flap,
Nor a Roman foot pass by.

On Quarley Down, on Quarley Down
A man may hear the wind and trees,
But never a word of the Roman tongue,
Nor a snatch of their martial me-

On Quarley Down, on Quarley Down
An ancient bed I lay upon,
For I lay sleeping in the moat
Dug nigh two thousand years ago.

And God send peace to these dead men
Whose "ditch" is their "Bisphoria!"

USEFULNESS OF GLASS.

Casualty we regard glass as a peris-table substance. The fragility of it, however, is overrated. Some of the uses to which glass has been put speak of its strength rather than its weakness.

It is some days since a well-known society woman astonished the world by wearing a glass dress. Now, dresses made of glass are no novelty. Glass carpets, rooms and buildings are ordinary.

Favements made of glass are to be found in Lyons. The French are enthusiastic over them. They claim for the glass pavements advantages over those made of asphalt, stone or wood.

In Germany water pipes are made of glass. This is quite an old custom. A more recent use made by the Germans of glass is the making of telegraph poles. It has been an immense success.

NEGLIGEES IN FLANNEL AND SILK

Few days when resting there is no reason why women should not be attractively gowned, for Paris has sent over more lovely models than ever. The warm negligee is now a combination of luxury and necessity, with a practical, inexpensive feature emphasized for your benefit.

The group before you attests to the fact that simplicity is ever beautiful. The newest lines are here; fringe, satin, coarse lace, braid, the new collars and large revers are shown. Each feature is copyable by the home dressmaker, and it is your own preference for color and material that will make the assured beauty doubly sure.

Over in Paris the negligee occupies an important place in the outfit of the Frenchwoman. She insists upon style and beauty. She scorns the "wrapper." She can rest "en negligee" in content and fashionable charm.

The model at the left shows a wide band of coarse flat lace. This is used to give the effect of a revers on one side, crossing over the shoulder and reaching to the side at the back. On the "other" side is a wide "flat" revers. This crosses over to the side and fastens. This negligee is of pale pink flannel; the girdle with the sash ends, fringed, is of bright pink. The lace can be replaced, if you wish, by sheer linen band embroidered in pink flowers.

Fringe is used on the next model, made without a girdle and on the regular long kimono pattern. The sleeves, however, are gathered into a band and trimmed with deep turned-back cuffs. This is in pale blue French flannel. The pointed collar is made larger by a band two inches wide. It is attached to the edge by the open catstitch in white embroidery silk. A tissue paper pattern is a good foundation on which to do this. White silk fringe edges the shawl collar.

Facing us is a model in pale pink, with embroidery in lavender. A deep, pointed collar of the flannel is placed over the shoulders and back, while at the front pointed revers cross above the high waist line. Embroidery gives a decorative border to revers, cuffs and the turned flap of the side opening. The girdle is of lavender braid or silk cording with tassels.

Standing beside her is the wearer of an old rose silk negligee. The pattern is in corbeau blue, while the plain collar, cuffs and hem are of deep blue. The revers on this model widen out into a square collar at the back. The cuffs on the kimono sleeves show a modified upper line. Two silk-covered buttons and cord form the fastenings at the side. There is a suggestion of drapery, while the upper part is slightly shorter than the under section, giving ing a double band at the front. This model in pale blue, with deep purple trimmings, is enjoying great favor.

Plain gray silk is trimmed with a fichu of handkerchief linen embroidered in coral. This is draped over the bodice and there is a curved attached belt that defines the waist line. Coral buttons fasten the simple negligee. The fichu is adjustable. It can be changed for a gray net or an ecru lace. If this be your choice, apply color in coin spots or scallops. It will lend the distinction that handwork inevitably gives.

At the right stands the last of the group in silk crepe, crepe de chine or flannel. Narrow silk soutache braid in the same color—yellow—is used to form a border in the easy, serpentine pattern for the round collar.

The vest is braided in parallel lines and the bell-shaped sleeves are trimmed with a simple motif in braid. Deep yellow satin forms the girdle, which is knotted at the side and hangs in two ends, with bell fringe as a finish.

These negligees are in silk and flannel. They are adaptable, however, in the cheaper materials, such as cotton crepe, poplin, cashmere or silk-and-wool mixtures.

They reflect the new lines, and one cannot but be glad that the changes in negligees are for the better.

French Fashion Notes

CHARMUSEL continues to be the fashionable fabric for afternoon wear. The favorite trimming is silk fringe. For evening gowns the supple charme is lauded for its softness. Therefore, enjoy the tendency that characterizes this autumn's styles.

A gorgeous costume by Lucile & Co. rivals the models of French designers. This English house is compelling admiration by its lovely offerings. The gown referred to was of white chiffon embroidered in sequins and little empire wreaths. The chiffon fell over an underdress of lace and rose silk. A sash of pale pea green was used, and to complete the soft effect a tunic of blue was placed over the gown. The whole gorgeous color scheme suggested sunset and sea—and no one can carry a daring variety of colors to a successful finish better than the Maison Lucile of Paris.

Then and Now

A VERY interesting book recently published tells us of the life and history of one Mademoiselle Bertin, who in the time of Louis XVI conducted one of the most fashionable dressmaking establishments in Paris.

An examination of her accounts tells some surprising stories regarding the prices paid for gowns and hats worn by no less personages than the Queen Marie Antoinette, the czarina and the queens of Spain and Sweden.

Judging from these figures, the prices paid then for elaborate costumes appear today like those asked for the merest trifling accessory.

Then, a hat of fine tulle and Italian gauze was sold for 55 francs; a broad garden hat of straw edged with thin "commette" and trimmed with a velvet band was marked 33 francs, and a lovely theater bonnet of pleated blonde, trimmed with wreaths of roses and a panache of feathers, cost 120 francs.

It is almost enough to disturb the quiet of our ancestors' eternal sleep, should they be aware of a great-granddaughter paying a thousand francs for a simple looking hat and many times that price for an afternoon frock.

And yet, then as now, some of them ruined their husbands by their extravagance in dress.

Speaking of the elaborateness of the costumes of today and the various combinations of material and trimmings used in the building of a single reception or ball gown, one is tempted to regard them as delightfully plain and unadorned when compared with the dress of a grand dame during this period of wonderful fashions.

Mlle Bertin describes a gown made for one of her favorite customers. The dress was of "garnets etouffes" trimmed with "perles superbes" with a point of "candeur parfaite" down the front, which, in turn, was trimmed with ribbons of "plantes indiacretes."

With it were worn shoes of "cheveux de la reine" embroidered with diamonds in "cours perdes" and with "vases y vol" in émeraude. The lady's hair was dressed "en sentiments courtois," and she wore a chaparran of "coquette arriere" with trimmings of "plantes volages" and ribbons "well and true."

Then, too, there was a muff of "agitation momentanee." In the words of an American gentleman of my acquaintance, "Can you beat it?" If, in this age, we have elaborated our garments in any degree whatsoever, we have at least simplified their names.

And as to their cost, let me quote another. "Little American friend of mine, who very aptly said, 'when reproved by her staid older sister for paying a ridiculous sum for a charming little bonnet: "Well, if Jack will pay, why not?"

Parisiennes Love Contrast

OVER in Paris one is constantly impressed with the Frenchwoman's insatiable love of contrast.

The thinnest of gauzes are frequently seen trimmed with fur, while one has only to glance about the cafes at the dining hour to see the heaviest brocades, satins and velvet showing chiffon and tulle veillings.

Everywhere one sees long scarfs of gauzy tissue edged with bands of fur, while others of satin are bordered with feather trimming.

Swan down makes an especially pretty trimming for the long capes and little jackets of black mousseline de soie which the Frenchwomen know so well how to drape themselves, as they did a century or two ago in the beautiful long stoles.

One attractive model of black mousseline de soie has one of its sides form a quaiety, which is thrown back over the shoulder like a Spanish cloak. About the hem and sleeves runs a border of white feather trimming, which adds to the garment just the correct touch of style. Such a mantle is quite suitable for wearing in the evening, either for dinners or for the restaurants of the boulevards.

This love of contrast reigns also in the matter of footwear. Black and blue shoes are much in favor. They are always fitted with buckles of brilliant, and often those to match is always worn with these dainty slippers.

With silk costumes the shoe of dull black or gray is preferred.

Lucile & Co. Paris

The Vogue for Fringe

THE hat has gone forth regarding fringe. We will continue to have in greater profusion than ever.

It will be seen on nearly all of the new costumes for afternoon and evening wear, on house gowns, negligees, parasols and even on hats.

Wide it is, and narrow, with every possible intermediate width to suit the taste of even the most fastidious; it is made of cotton, of silk, of beads, of gold, silver and copper threads; it is fashioned of imitation jewels, pearls and lovely strands of jet.

Some of it falls in perfectly plain strands from the bordering top, while other has a knotted border, crossed and re-crossed in intricate fashion; in fact, the styles in fringe are as many as there are materials on which to use it. Each manufacturer tries to produce some new trick in knotting the fringe on outdoor wraps. Even the heavy hall fringe is used on indoor costumes. A matinee gown of blue satin has the draped tulle trimmed with fringe a quarter of a yard deep made of a series of wooden balls, graduated in size and covered with thread silk, strung on silken cords. Between each ball is a curiously tied knot. Deep fringe, strung with multicolored beads and finished with long crystal bugles, is used with wonderful effect on a satin gown veiled with chiffon shading from shell pink to a deep rich red.

Another lovely model of king's blue chateausse has a bodice of heavy lace with a peplum back. A tunic of chiffon is folded about the figure from the raised waist line.

Wide black silk fringe started at the girdle in the front, crossed the right shoulder, bordered the peplum and edged the tunic, which crossed on the left side of the back.

Hall fringe is sometimes used on the edge of skirts. I saw a rather attractive model in sheenless black satin made up in a one-piece frock, that had hall fringe edging the short sleeves and sewed to the skirt's hem, which cleared the ground by quite three inches.

If, then, you are considering trimming for a particular costume, go and look at the many fascinating fringes before having anything else, and I think you will decide upon one of them as the answer to your perplexity.

Bonnet Strings

"STRAWES show which way the wind blows." So, also, do the little bonnets of tulle, coquettishly set upon the waved and puffed coiffure and engarlanded with myosotis, and the large tagals lined with felt, that have quite taken the place of almost all other forms of headgear during the last few weeks.

Every one of them have long strings of black velvet which are tied at the side and at the back and have thin long ends floating, or caught with a jeweled pin high over the bust and on the left side.

The "weave" string is simply a very long loop of broad velvet ribbon, through which the arm is slipped. It hangs loosely on the left side under the arm. This new trick in millinery is causing not a little comment regarding its probable popularity, but without seems to be finding favor in the eyes of the true great dictators of style.

measure is valued with chiffon or mousseline de soie. Reviving this idea is the use of brocade fabric.

Most of the skirts for evening have small trains. Tunics are longer at the back than the front, and elaborate embroidery and fringe are used to decorate them.

Dark blouses are trimmed with white mousseline de soie.

Girdles and sashes are often in bright colors on black-and-white gowns.

The cashmere designs of winter are now. This new material is used for revers and cuffs on suits.

Long coats are the new feature in tailored suits. Long sleeves are also being shown by many designers, but over here no column is absolute. There are too many opposing models, each Single revers on coats are used, with beautiful pleatings of lace and mull peeping forth in all their glory. The plissé, the jabot and the eavat are decidedly to be reckoned with when you plan your fall outfit.

Black velvet has been made up into long coats for afternoon wear. The cape coats, by the way, are quite the newest thing. Frequently a straight coat will have an outer cape-like arrangement reaching to the hem of the skirt.

Thin on the edge of hats, coats, wraps and gowns will again be worn. Tailors are now adding the new lines for evening. There is extremely chic. It is used as a ribbon on skirts of evening dresses. It is a decided feature on flared, draped bodices and blouses. ELOISE

The front.

Designed by
E. J. Duckman

I DON'T know which to emphasize today in my little story—the beauty of the bowknot in its graceful curves or the quickness of the French knots to be used in working the blossoms. At any rate, the two in a delightful combination are here for a blouse design. I am certain that you will like the result.

Choose a fine batiste, lawn or sheer linen for this design. Soft mercerized cotton of your favorite make will do very well, while white darning cotton you will need for the padding of solid work.

Transfer this design to your material by one of the methods suggested elsewhere. Be sure to have the center of the blouse to match the central fold of your goods. Allow for seams beyond the shoulder line.

When designing the back, place the pattern next to the shoulder seam and make a line of four scallops down and then use a straight line of scallops across. The yoke will be square at the back.

If I were you, I would make a yoke of lace—either all over or insertion, whichever you prefer. Baste this on the right side of the material and work right over it when making the scallops and the bowknots. With sharp scissors you can trim the edges when you have finished.

Another way is to complete the pattern and add the yoke afterward, cutting away the linen and finishing by turning in and hemming on the wrong side.

Work the centers of the flowers solid and complete the blossoms with French knots. Use outline stitches for the stems, whipping them into a firm cord by a second application. Pad the slender leaves and work solid, as the French work in their designs.

There are two ways of treating the bowknots. The first method is the solid stitch, which I prefer on the design. It gives a relief, and the rest of the pattern requires so little time that you can devote much to the two bows. Pad with darning cotton the length of the ribbon. Work in solid stitches across the darning. Use outline stitches for the lines used to indicate the twist.

Another way is the heavy outlining of the ribbon and the filling in with seed stitches, which are tiny back stitches.

Eyelet work will finish the dots and make you or a fortunate recipient happy that there is such a thing as an embroidery page.

Make a collar of lace, or, if you prefer, you can work a straight strip of linen on which you can mark a spray or two.

With lace yoke and collar I would use lace cuffs, or a lace edge for three-quarter-length sleeves.

It really isn't too soon to make gifts, you know.

LACE MAKING

SINCE the craze for the old-fashioned Paisley, or fine designs in all sorts of materials, has been so great, it has also been introduced in the making of lace. The pattern will be gladly welcomed by lovers of new fads in needlework.

This lace, of course, has to be executed in colors. It can be made into all sorts of things for the household and dress adornment. If worked in very heavy thread it makes beautiful edging for curtains, table covers, etc.

As it is a needlepoint lace, the only materials required for its making are the thread in varying shades, needle and a stiff girdle lining.

Trace a series of the "pines" on the lining. For instance, if you are making a band for curtain trimming, measure the width of the curtain and cut the lace lining a little longer than that measurement and from four to six inches wide, as you desire. On the unglazed side of the lining trace a row of "pines" at least two inches apart, interlacing their position as you go. Now tack a border thread a half inch from the edge of the pattern, all the way around, using a fine silk thread for lacing so it will be sure to hold firmly in place.

The lace is now ready to be worked. Using the same thread as the outline, tack an outline thread over to the "pines" and fill in the entire space with the point-lace stitch, known as the Greek 8 stitch.

Next, with one of the colored threads, darn alternately every other mesh of this groundwork. After this has been done the outline thread is buttonholed around the mesh. This groundwork of net must be executed in one color of thread, but over it small spots of different color are worked.

Lace workers will recognize these dots as raised rings. They help to give the work the mottled effect which is seen in the woven Paisley fabrics.

When the center is filled in, the entire edging is buttonholed around and the tacking stitches cut. The work is then lifted off the lining and it is ready for use. In this work no knots are ever made in the thread. When it is necessary to take a fresh needleful, commence about half an inch from where you left off and run the needle in and out of the outline thread up to the starting point. When the buttonholed edge is put around, all the loose ends will be covered over.

Owing to the coarseness of the thread, the work is quickly done. If it is desired to make dress trimmings, it can be worked with colored silk and the "pines" can be made singly and applied afterward. Jewels may be inserted instead of the raised rings and gold or silver thread used for the net foundation and the darned meshes.

Trimming for evening dresses can be made in this way.

Mourning colors, black, white or shades of purple, are used with good effect. When once the principle of this lace is mastered there is no limit to the different purposes the lace can be put to. Combinations of colors can be artistically arranged.

Dainty Combinations

FOR the woman who delights in making her own lingerie, the combination corset cover and undershirt will be found one of the most useful, dainty and easily made articles of the entire outfit.

One and one-quarter yards of embroidered flouncing twelve inches wide is required for the corset cover, two yards of longcloth or English nainsook for the bodice, and one-half yard of embroidered flouncing for shoulder straps.

Fifteen inches from each end of the embroidery for the corset cover cut a slit three inches long. From these and edging with lace. Two inches from each edge of these slits attach the flouncing for the shoulder strap. This makes large loose armholes. The edges of the embroidery are hemmed and, if desired, edged with lace, and are held together with two tiny lace-covered buttons.

Narrow ribbon is run through the top of the bodice, and then a lace-edged ruffle four inches wide is attached to the bottom by a narrow row of beads. Run ribbon through this and tie in a fat bow on one side.

These little combinations are quickly made and are well worth the trouble. They can be as plain or as elaborate as you desire; and if linen undershirts are worn, they are lovely when fastened off the linen having a floral design embroidered about the upper edge of the corset cover. Elaborate ones are inset with lace medallions or insertion and have lace-edged ruffles tucked or set with insertions.

Wide beadings run through with ribbon can be used to join the corset cover and skirt, or it can fasten with plain, flat wash buttons in front.

There are all sorts of possibilities in a garment of this sort which will develop once you start to make your own underclothes.

THE FASHIONABLE BEADED ROBE

WHAT woman is there whose heart does not long for one of the handsome beaded robes that are now so fashionable for evening gowns?

In passing through a shop she will see one draped over satin or mounted on a stunning-looking figure.

She will admire it from all angles; lift up the edge and feel the soft, shiny beads caught by lustrous threads to the clinging net; will study the pattern of the design, and wish and wish that she could possess that robe or one like it. But, alas! the price is far beyond the limit of her purse; it would take years to save enough of her limited income to purchase one. So she sighs and turns away to purchase, perhaps, some cheap material, which she makes up as best she can in a simple little evening frock.

If she but knew it, those beautiful and expensive beaded robes or elaborate tunics that will appear on many of the imported gowns this season can be made at home if one has a fair amount of patience and likes to sew.

Purchase enough silk net, if you want a very handsome one, to make a closely fitting tunic, or, if you wish, a robe that reaches the floor.

Cut it over a good pattern, having as few seams as possible; baste the seams and fit it to your figure. Now draw out the beading threads and cut an accurate pattern of the gored out of large sheets of very thin linen paper, or paper that is known as "onion skin." If you cannot get from your stationer sheets large enough to cut an entire gown, it is easy to paste the edges of several smaller sheets together and make a large piece for yourself. On these paper gored trace with pen and ink any desired design you wish to use for the beading.

These can be obtained from an art needlework store, or if you are clever at drawing or have a friend who is, it will be easy to make your own designs. Flowers and leaves, scrolls, bunches of grapes with leaves and curly tendrils, or a conventional pattern, are all good designs to choose. Select a design that will fit the gored—one having dainty traceries or small leaves toward the waist; line and the heavy part of the pattern near the hem.

It is best to trace it first with pencil, then go over it with India ink. This done, baste the net on the paper pattern, having the tracing next to the net so you can see it through the net. It is then an easy matter to sew on the beads, following the line of the pattern.

Use a fine needle and the silk, waxed, sewing through the paper. Begin at the waist line and work down toward the hem.

You can use any color beads you desire, or can use several colors if it be a floral design and you want to represent the colors of the blossoms with beads.

Gold and silver beads on black net are best; in fact, they are best on any color. Jet beads make a very brilliant scintillating robe and crystal beads on white are lovely. When the last bead has been sewed on, tear away the paper pattern and your robe is ready to make up.

If you wish, you can stitch the seams of the net before beading, leaving only the seam at the back open. This will be more difficult to work on, but you can then run the beading over the seams in some places, so it will more nearly resemble the imported ones.

After all the seams are stitched and trimmed off evenly, turn up the hem and catch it in place with small silk stitches.

The robe is then ready to be mounted over a satin slip, and you will be surprised how beautiful it will look.

One woman I know displays with the greatest pride a beaded tunic she made herself.

It was very dark blue silk net, beaded with iridescent blue beads.

Under the light it sparkled, and when my friend walked it caught and reflected the light at a million different points. It is admired by every one who sees it.

If, then, you want one of these beautiful robes, follow the foregoing directions and make one for yourself while sitting in the glow of the evening lamp. Such work takes the place of embroidery and is more fascinating.

To Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. This latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

Rope Girdles

NOW that fancy rope girdles have become so fashionable, the price has been put far beyond the means of some women who are as keenly interested in being well and fashionably dressed as their sisters who can afford to spend large sums on clothes and their accessories.

With a little time, care and the display of a little ingenuity, it is possible to make your own girdles at far less expense than if they were bought ready made. A very handsome bellrope girdle can be fashioned by twisting three strands of fine silk cord together until they are closely and evenly matched. Around each end wrap waxed thread, sewing it securely through the ends to hold them so there will be no danger of slipping or fraying out. A silk tassel finishes each end, and the girdle is passed around the waist line of the gown and knotted in front or at the side. They should be 2 1/2 yards long.

Any of these can be made of cord that matches the costume of two or three different shades.

Black combined with bright colors is attractive. Gold and silver cord, single or combined, is lovely for girdles on evening frocks. These are made by plaiting or twisting strands of cord and finishing with fringed ends or tasseled ends.

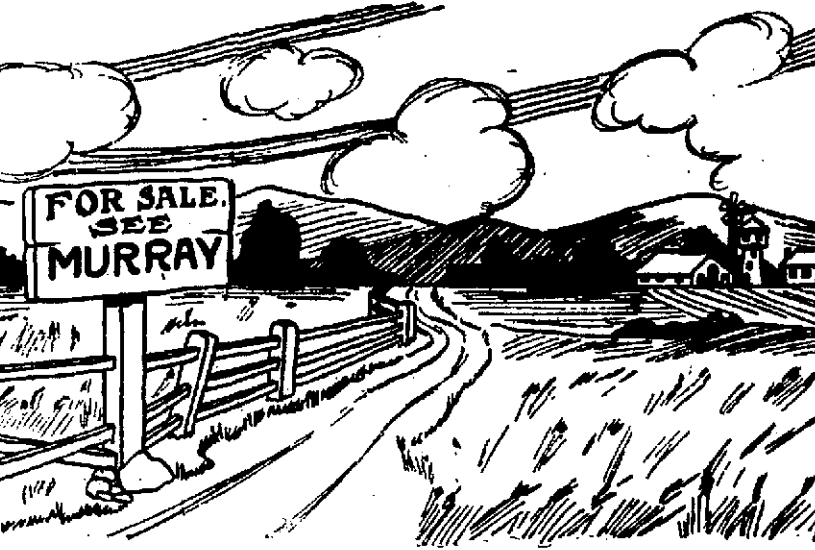

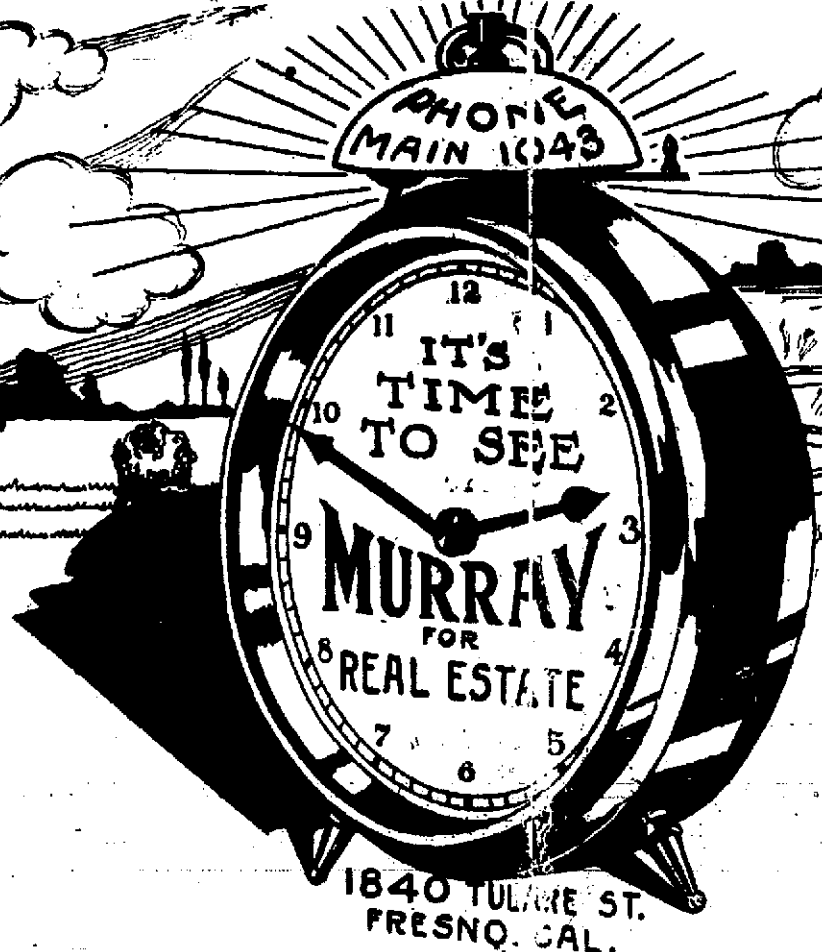

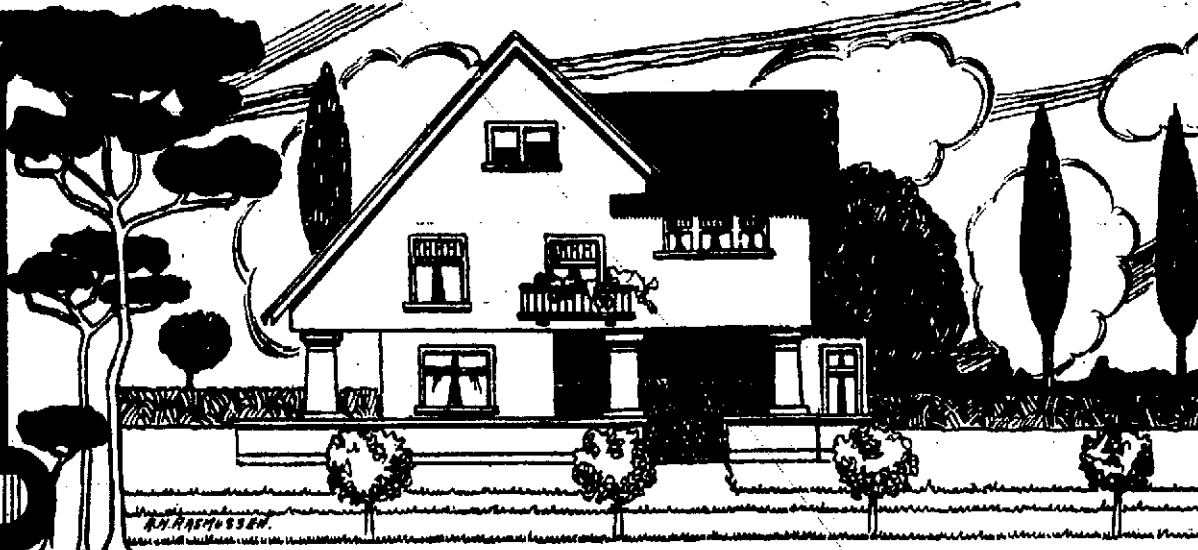

Flat braid girdles are equally fashionable. Three yards of broad, flat braid, matching or contrasting with the costume, have fringed ends. This is very effective when tied in a small flat bow having two long ends falling to the hem of the gown on the left side of the front.

GOOSE BALL TEAM TO GO AFTER MADERA BUNCH THIS AFTERNOON

MADERA, Oct. 7.—"Just a baseball game—that's all," is the way Charlie Preciado is advertising the diamond tomorrow afternoon between the Madera team of Fresno and the Coyotes. This circus party, Preciado says, is the Moose club is from Fresno and composed of a few stars, a few has-beens and a few bun ball players. If at the home aggregation, he remarked, Madera be composed of a few players from the old Squid and a few Coyotes and also a few stars. It is rumored that El Jefe Raymond's mayor, consents to union on balls and strikes, John Carey, genial Southern Hotel host, will abstain. The fun will start around 2:30.

CHARLEY DE RYDER SENDS DEL REY TO TOP OF THREE YEAR OLD DIVISION

The annual Fresno County Fair closed yesterday in a blast of glory when Del Rey, the green pacing stallion from the farm of Haxard and Woodland, Cal., stepped into an exhibition ring to gallop the 2:05 flat, breaking the world's record by half a second. The remarkable performance placed Del Rey at the top of the list of great pacers, ahead of Klutwuh and Jan Logan, the former champions.

Del Hoy's feat came as a fitting climax to the fine, shattering performance of the gelding at the fairgrounds. Earlier in the week, Copa de Oro, with a previous mark of 1:59 flat for the mile, stepped a year in 68 seconds at the fairgrounds. The fastest standardbred two half mile trotter exhibited at the state fair at Sacramento, reeled off a mile here in 1:05.2. W. G. Durfee of Los Angeles, who rode the gelding, drove Copa de Oro and Murdock, a yearling colt, to victory. This was the first time the gelding had won a race. The reasons assigned by the judges for

Now Showing the Latest Victor Phonographs

Have you seen any of the latest models of Victor Talking Machines? There have been many improvements recently and they are far superior to the machines of several years ago and beyond comparison with other makes. To be appreciated they must be seen.

The highest development of talking machines is the Victrola. A Victrola gives you everything that a perfect orchestra can. We are selling them on easy payments. Plan to buy one.

We have these machines in many prices and you can find one within your means. A Victrola is a constant joy, an entertainer of whom one never tires. It furnishes high class entertainments at any time and at almost no cost.

We are agents for three of the most popular bicycles made. The Pierce at $45 to $65, is the highest priced wheel made, and the best. The Yale at $30 to $40 is the best of popular priced bicycles and one that has a reputation of many years standing.

The Appeal is a decided favorite. It has the double bar reinforcement of the frame that makes it almost unbreakable, and the large, comfortable motorcycle saddle, and counter brake. This is all regular in the equipment.

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 25.—The Bakersfield Motorcycle club, 2500 S. Main, will invade Tulare county Sunday, making a run of 150 miles and taking in Visalia, Tulare, Porterville and Lindsay. The run will be from Bakersfield to Visalia, then to Porterville and the county line and thence into Visalia and returning to Bakersfield by way of the orange grove district of Exeter, Lindsay and Porterville. The club has 25 members, of whom 30 and 35 members and is an enthusiast for good roads in the valley counties. The club has taken a number of runs already this summer—but the Visalia-Tulare trip is the longest and the most well planned. It will be led by J. J. Dunn, the president, Frank Lighner, secretary, Andy Hansen, Charley Maho and several others of the speed kinds of this sort of the roads. The club is 20th. The motorcycle club will hold a smoker and Andy Hansen and C. C. Taylor have been delegated to arrange for the refreshments. A social program will be given. Last year the club was organized. Initiated and the membership is growing.

EXETER, Oct. 7.—Before a crowd of about a hundred at the Forum theater last night, Battling Nelson of San Jose and Joe Thomas of Los Angeles fought fifteen rounds to a draw. Pat Brady of Coolidge refereed the contest.

The fight was a tame affair throughout, and neither man showed class. After the first few minutes of fiddling, the entire fifteen rounds consisted of the two men engaging up and down the center of the ring, each man free always in the clinches and punish the Mexican with jabs to the kidneys and ribs.

There was an excited discussion of the match on the streets all day yesterday, the women of Exeter having invoked every possible device to stop the fight, in spite of the fact that the city council had issued a permit for the match.

The volunteers for the fight went to the volunteer fire department and

ORANGE LAND.

The orange grower is the King of Farmers. His profits are largest. His occupation most profitable. His surroundings most beautiful.

So an orange grower.

FRESNO COUNTY has as good orange land as can be found anywhere in the state. Being busy with raisins, peaches and alfalfa, we have been slow to realize this truth. As a result, our orange lands are still low in price, and the best may yet be had.

BUT the awakening is at hand. Fresno County orange land is being sought and bought and planted. The orchards are coming into their fullness and the county's greatest wealth producers, and as the site of its most beautiful and pleasant homes.

AS USUAL, outsiders have been the first to appreciate and reap the golden opportunity—people from the South, San Francisco, and from Southern California.

THAT RICH PROFITS "will" be made from the development of Fresno County's orange lands should be plain to all. Remember Southern California, with its dozens of beautiful towns and cities, its good roads and its network of electric lines uniting them all, and all founded upon and made possible by profits made from orange groves and orange lands. Remember the fact that the industry is expanding. Or will you shut your understanding and sit idle on the fence, and in a few years be telling your children and friends what a chance you missed? NOW is the time to act.

WE present WAITOKE TIERMALL TRACT as the very best of Fresno County's orange land, the equal of any anywhere, 1500 acres, in lots of 10 acres or more. Just 20 miles east of Fresno. Less than one mile from the new Santa Fe station and station of Minkler. In the midst of orange groves and vineyards. Crossed lengthwise by the gravelled county highway leading to Millwood. Schools on both ends. On the southern slope of Echo-E-Minee mountain. Perfect air and water drainage. Beautiful situation and view. The best irrigation system in Fresno County; 130 horse power pumping plant already in. Over three miles of cement and steel mains already laid. Water at actual cost of pumping and delivering it. The tract itself partly sold and planting begun last season.

NOW is the time to act. After a while will be too late.

THE PRICE is low, and the terms very easy: One-third down, and the balance of the principal at the end of four years.

ARE YOU WILLING to be shown? Our proposition is in the front rank, first-class in every respect. We court your investigation. Let us show you. Our notes are at your disposal.

THERE IS MONEY in orange land. Big money. Why not get your share?

20 ACRES, 20 acres of vineyard, 7 acres of peaches, 10 acres alfalfa; 7 room house, windmill and tank, barn and out buildings, all good, 4000 trays, 100 sweat boxes, wagon, truck and all implements. Price $3000. Will take good terms. See owner, C. C. Feltan, 1418 1st St., Fresno.

COUNTY'S MOST SUCCESSFUL FAIR IS AT LAST BROUGHT TO CLOSE

Live Stock and Agricultural Exhibits Receive Much Favorable Comment; Big Poultry Show; Attendance Bigger Than Ever.

The most successful county fair in the history of the Fresno Agricultural Association passed into history last night. For one week the fair grounds have been crowded with people, viewing the exhibits and the harness races.

A special effort was made this year to get a first class horse and live stock exhibit, and that the effort was successful was made evident by the many favorable comments passed. The show of stock on display was not without interest, while the blue ribbon animals were brought out. Probably never before in the history of Fresno has there been seen here such a collection of blooded horses and cattle as was seen on that occasion.

On the track the class of races and exhibitions was equally good. Some of the best horses in the United States were seen here the last week. In the course of the week the mile and mile track records were shattered, while one horse went a mile better than the world's record for 3-year-olds. Capa De Oro sent the track half mile record glimmering when he won the distance in 38 seconds, and yesterday he won the mile in 2:05, but won one second faster than the world's record for 3-year-olds. Doi Rey is a 3-year-old.

A number of the birds entered for premiums at the fair were considered by people who have had considerable experience in the state fair. Some of these birds this year were entered only in the state fair until they came to Fresno.

The display of Mrs. F. K. Wisner, of Creswell, Oregon, in the poultry show was only another illustration of the character of the fair. Mrs. Wisner entered her birds in only one other fair in California this year, the state fair. She brought them direct to Fresno from her Oregon home and will take them from here to Dallas, Texas.

The horticultural department brought out a large number of exhibitors, and the exhibits were of the very best. Taken throughout, it can safely be said that there was not a product of Fresno county that was not on display at the fair. Oil, viticulture, horticulture, agriculture and stock raising were represented in scores of ways, together with dairying.

Notwithstanding the fact that big admissions were made to buildings on the grounds, the capacity of the grounds was taxed to care for the exhibits that poured in. There was only one day in the week, Tuesday, when the old grandstand was not full. The remaining days the three stands were packed, while hundreds watched in bugles, automobiles and other conveyances and then the races.

Although no definite figures have been available, it is believed that the attendance was much larger than last year. The financial result of the fair is also a matter of guess, although the directors are inclined to believe that the result will be much more near the credit side of the ledger than ever before in the past.

The Fresno county fair this year was really a district fair, without the state aid such a fair should have. It was the only big fair in the valley and attracted people from all parts of the valley and around the Bay.

CHILDREN'S DAY
The children and representatives of organized labor observed the day yesterday at the fair. To children under 14 admittance was free, while to others, admittance was 10 cents. As a result the grounds were thronged throughout the entire day and well into the evening. A large representation of union labor people were also present participating in the amusements at the fair.

The race program was the principal feature of the afternoon, although large numbers through the grounds viewing the prize-winning exhibits and taking in the concessions. The last of the judging in the horse show took place in front of the grandstand and Happy Jack and his happy family gave the last of their wild west exhibitions.

As soon as the race program was over, preparations for leaving were started. The automobile queue was almost all deserted by 7 o'clock and in other places the tearing down of the exhibits started. The horse and cattle owners began making preparations to leave, and some did leave. W. G. Durfee left with his string. Doi Rey will leave with his string today.

No admittance was charged for the final night, and some efforts were made to make it of a carnival nature. The attendance was not very large, however.

BAVY SHOW.
Thirty-nine babies under three years, were entered in the baby show, which took place at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. There were fourteen classes for which trophies had been put up by the fair association but there were only four babies in the classes.

Mrs. J. E. Dickson offered a special prize of $5 to the baby with the brightest red hair, provided there were five babies with red hair entered. There were no entries for this prize.

KERN BANK FAILURE NOT KINGSBURG BANK

Through a mistake in news dispatches from the west it was stated yesterday morning that a cheypan had failed in Kern county, partly because he had lost in a failure of the "Kingsburg Bank." The dispatch should have read "Kern Valley Bank," as to be located by Kingsburg, and the Kern Valley bank which recently was closed out in bankruptcy was the institution really referred to. The Kingsburg bank is admittedly a sound institution and there has been at no time a question of its financial ability.

ESPEE SENDS A NEW ENGINE OF FRESNO FROM SOUTH

Additional Rolling Stock
Coming; All Trains Arrive on Time.

Railroad Officials State
Striker Was Not Hit By
One of Guards.

A new passenger train engine for use on local trains through the valley arrived here at 10 o'clock last night from Los Angeles. The engine recently arrived on the coast from Chicago. The addition makes a total of twenty engines now stationed at the Fresno roundhouse.

This is also the first piece of rolling stock to be sent here since the strike began on the Harriman lines and it is predicted that additional rolling stock will be sent to the coast from Chicago and Kansas City. However, owing to the strike, the present condition of the old rolling stock is well-nigh perfect. The officials point to the running time made between stations and the satisfactory service given the public, no complaints have been made about slow time.

ONE TRAIN IS LATE.
All trains were on time, or nearly so, yesterday. Last night, passenger train No. 50 was a half hour late due to a delay at Lathrop, where connections are made with trains from the Sacramento valley. The southbound train arrived here on time and a through freight train from Los Angeles to San Francisco made the run from Bakersfield to Fresno in five hours. This freight train brought the new passenger engine from Los Angeles.

ASSAULT NOT STRUCK.
Assistant Superintendent Dadds, who has charge of the Fresno yards during the strike, last night denied that N. M. Stewart, one of the striking carmen, had been assaulted by a Southern Pacific guard at the Tulare street crossing yesterday morning. Dadds said that the alleged assault occurred under the brilliant light at the Tulare street crossing. Two guards were standing at the point at which the alleged assault took place, although the guards denied any knowledge of the alleged assault. They declare they saw Stewart doing picket duty alone for part of night but every hour or so other strikers joined him.

Assistant Superintendent Dadds last night gave out a statement showing the number of people handled by the company's trains during county fairs. The figures run almost to 100,000 a year, which is an increase of 3000 over last year of 1910. This year three special trains were run and the largest number came from Kern, Clovis, Coalinga and Selma.

TULARE GOLDEN TROUT ARE SUCCESSFULLY TRANSPLANTED

Supposedly Impossible Feat
Accomplished By Fish Commission.

Kern Waters and Canal System in Stanislaus Stocked With Bass.

District State Deputy Game Warden Ferguson is priding himself that he and his fish transplanters have accomplished what the general government has failed to do in various attempts to the transplanting of the beautiful golden trout from Volcano creek at the base of Mt. McKinley, even to the failure of a temporary hatchery established in 1905.

Reports from the state hatchery at Siskiyou are that the 1,300 adult golden trout brought down from the mountains and delivered by mule pack-train to the state fish camp in Fresno county are alive at the hatchery and that there has not been the loss of a fish. In fact, says Ferguson, the loss out of the consignment of this brilliantly hued fish was only three, and that loss was experienced before delivery to the fish camp. The experience is cited as a remarkable one in fish transplanting work and is declared to be without a parallel.

The pack train also has returned home, but on the return journey Deputy Warden picked up 101 golden trout, which after a journey of eight days in cans in pack-mule trains were liberated in three streams with the loss of only one fish. They were liberated in the north fork of the Kaweah river in the northern part of Tulare county, in Madiera Basin creek in this county between Millwood and Home near the Kings river canyon state road, and in Mill creek near Trecek on the Millwood road and new Sand Creek road into the mountains.

TAKEN FROM LAKES.
The golden trout transported to Stanislaus for propagation purposes and ultimate distribution in waters at high altitudes were taken from Cottonwood lakes, which are separated by miles and by the main summit ridge from Volcano, where scientists and fishermen have regarded as the habitat of this fish. The success of this transplanting of golden trout, the largest quantity ever made from a high altitude lake, has excited research by federal and state authorities to ascertain how the golden trout came to be transplanted from creek to lakes.

The discovery of them in the lakes set at rest two other disputed points. One of these was that the golden trout could not live in other than Volcano creek water and its brilliant hues from some mineral in solution in the lava bed of the creek. The lake trout were found to be even more brilliant in hue and to attain a size never seen in the home creek waters.

The golden trout transplanting made this summer has brought to light the fact that the golden trout, which in the early 70's ex-Sheriff Sam Mulky or lay-cured fish from eight to ten miles from Volcano Creek to Mulky creek, that in 1876 Col. A. C. Stevens and others transplanted from Mulky to Cottonwood creek, and in 1892 E. H. Edwards of Lone Pine, aided by a Mexican named Emanuel Diaz, conveyed fish from Cottonwood creek to the lakes.

The brief experience with this golden trout transplanting of this summer with the added information sent in to headquarters since the publication of the successful result of the fish expedition has resulted in throwing new light upon a much debated fish subject and to disprove much of the legend and the theories of scientists published in the illustrated bulletin on "The Golden Trout of the Southern High Sierras," issued in May, 1906, by the Bureau of Fisheries. In this bulletin the golden trout was regarded as such a freak that strict protective measures were urged to prevent its early extinction by man.

REPORTED VIOLATIONS.
Ferguson says that on his visit to Kern county, which was recently retransferred under the jurisdiction of the Fresno office of the valley game and fish district he received reports of many violations of the laws because of the absence of a game commissioner for more than a year.

Typist Matthews of Wasco, an ex-consistent and a man interested in game and fish matters, has been appointed resident deputy with headquarters at Bakersfield and the sportsmen of the county having taken up the subject earnestly with him a change for the better in existing conditions will soon come about. Reports from that district are that quail are abundant, deer never more plentiful in years and the promise is for a good duck season with young birds in plenty on marshes and sloughs. The sportsmen of Kern have made requisition for a large consignment of bass, the waters in the county being destitute within ten days and twenty cans of bass taken in part from the stranded fish that are being seized in the water-reeded Summit Lake country sloughs. The bass will be transplanted to the Kern river and also the living sloughs that are connected with Buena Vista lake. As a bass is a rapid producer of food, it will not be many years when the anglers of Kern will have bass in plenty.

BASS FOR STANISLAUS.
The people of Stanislaus also made requisition for black bass and Warden Ferguson complied by sending a consignment of 7,500 fish. This application was made by the people living near Modesto, who desired to stock the waters of the canal system, with an artificial reservoir near the county seat. Deputy Newsom Storms has charge of the stocking of the lake, taking the black bass from the reedier waters of the San Joaquin. The citizens are very much interested in the transplanting experiment.

In this connection Warden Ferguson cites an interesting fact to disprove a popular fallacy namely that the carp grows on the bass. The Modesto canal system is fishless and to furnish food for the bass, which is an animal feeder and will devour its own kind for lack of food, a load of adult carp, which is a vegetable feeder, was turned into the waters also to furnish a food supply for the bass lest they starve or develop cannibal tendencies.
